UAW Strike Shuts Down Ford Empire

Talks Deadlocked On Noneconomic Part Of New Pact

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union struck and shut down the Ford Motor Co. empire Tuesday for the first time since Henry Ford granted the union recognition 20 years ago.

The strike of 120,000 hourly production workers came after 96 days of negotiation failed to bring agreement on a national contract.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther emerged from a final 25-hour marathon session at 10 a.m., the strike deadline, and announced the walkout. Actually workers had begun leaving their jobs at the giant Rouge plant in Dearborn, Mich., and elsewhere shortly after 8 a.m.

"The international union did everything possible to avert this strike," Reuther declared, blaming the company for stalling so that a walkout was inevitable.

"This strike is entirely unnecessary," said Malcolm L. Denise, a Ford vice president and the top management negotiator.

Negotiation To Resume

Both sides promised to try for a quick settlement. But no one speculated on when it might come. Talks were recessed until 10 a.m. Wednesday.

An economic package, closely paralleling the union's settlement with General Motors two weeks ago, was agreed upon at 6 a.m.

Reuther said this didn't give the bargainers enough time to work out pressing noneconomic problems.

These are the stumbling blocks:

Production standards, especially working conditions on moving assembly lines; representation, especially more full-time company paid committeemen in plants; lines of demarcation in the skilled trades; the right of the company to farm out certain specialized work, particularly tool and die work; and special issues involving the Ford steel plant in Dearborn.

Economic Package

Reuther and Denise, in separate statements, agreed the economic package represented some improvements for the union over the General Motors settlement.

These mainly are in the areas of supplemental unemployment benefits and insurance. The basic agreement provides an annual improvement factor of 6 cents an hour or 2½ per cent, whichever is greater, for each year for a three-year contract; inclusion of 12 cents of the present 17 cents cost of living allowance in base wages; fully paid hospital-medical insurance4 partial pay for short work weeks; an extension of unemployment payments and other fringe benefits.

Doctors Make Rayburn Tests

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Doctors made more tests Tuesday on House Speaker Sam Rayburn to determine whether an operation will be necessary for a suspected liver ailment or other internal troubles.

An attending physician said it will be Thursday or perhaps longer before tests are complete. Physicians then will determine what must be done.

A doctor said the 79-year-old Rayburn remained under heavy sedation Tuesday. He walked into Baylor Hospital Monday under his own power.

John Holton, Rayburn administrative assistant, termed the speaker's condition serious but not critical.

Revolt Planned To Save Army, Syria Declares

Nasser Moves To Undermine Forces Charged

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The revolt that split Syria from the United Arab Republic was originally planned to halt weakening of the Syrian army by the Egyptians, the army's new commander in chief said Tuesday.

Gen. Abdel Karim Zahredin told newsmen President Gamal Abdel Nasser's intelligence officers had infiltrated "like an octopus to weaken the Syrian army, suffocate freedom of citizens and to fill prisons."

He accused the Egyptians of stealing military arms and equipment worth 10-million Syrian pounds, which would be $28 million at the official exchange rate, and shipping them off to Cairo.

"The army's only aim (in revolting) was to redress wrongs and it was pledged not to interfere with the political life of Syria," Zahredin said.

Reliable sources said Syria has asked for prompt return of all Syrian army and air force officers studying in the Soviet Union. The Egyptian high command was reported to have shipped from 25 to 40 Syrian officers to the Communist bloc as students in an effort to prevent just such an uprising as that which restored Syria to independence last week.

Premier Mamoun Kuzbari has announced his revolutionary government intended to follow a neutral course in foreign affairs while encouraging private enterprise at home.

The Communist party will continue to be banned under existing regulations.

Radio Damascus denied a rumor that Khaled Bagdash, the Syrian Communist leader who fled to Moscow in 1958 to escape a Nasser dragnet, has returned to Syria. It also denied that former President Adib Shishekly, who was overthrown in 1954, is back from exile.

The new 12-man cabinet, most of whose members have almost no government experience, is considered decidedly pro-Western.

But a declaration to that effect would raise cries of "imperialism" that might endanger public Hamid Serraj, a Syrian strongsupport for the new regime.

Memphis Quiet As Century-Old Race Ban Ends

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A century of segregation in Memphis ended Tuesday when 13 Negro first graders were admitted to white schools guarded by a massive police turnout.

Police Commissioner Claude Armour reported there were no incidents, which was not surprising. Fifty patrolmen, billy clubs in hand, patrolled the area around each of the four schools involved.

Desegregation was voluntary, although due to indirect pressure from a federal suit now pending on appeal. The school board prepared for desegregation in near secrecy.

For many residents, "it" came as a jolt. They got their first word of it Tuesday morning when a news blackout was lifted.

Attendance at the schools was reported nearly normal despite a trickle of bitterly outspoken white mothers who hustled their youngsters out of classes.

"We will either transfer him or move plumb out of the city," said Mrs. Herman McGregor after pulling her son out of his fourth grade class. "We may go back to Mississippi where they don't let them go to school with whites."

"Yeah," said Jerry McGregor. "I'd rather be dumb than go to school with them."

In all, about 25 white pupils were withdrawn from the four schools.

Inside the schools, spokesmen reported all was serene. Teachers had prepared their classes for the new pupils. The wide-eyed newcomers moved through the school day without restriction — playing at recess, eating in the cafeteria.

The eight girls and five boys were carefully chosen from 42 who appealed to the Board of Education after their applications for admittance to white schools were rejected last month.

President Signs Impacted Areas School Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Tuesday night signed into law the bill extending for two years the program of federal aid for schools crowded because of federal activity in their areas.

He said he did so "with extreme reluctance."

The measure also continues for two years the 1958 National Defense Education Act providing loans to college student and other aids to teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages.

The former, known as the impacted areas program, carries about $300 million a year in U.S. grant funds. The NDEA program has been running at about $250 million a year.

This measure was all that Congress granted the President of the ambitious federal aid to education program he proposed this year.

American Peace March Ends At Kremlin's Gates

MOSCOW (AP) — A band of American peace marchers completed a march Tuesday that had taken them nearly half-way around the world and demonstrated for disarmament at the front gates of the Kremlin.

When they made their triumphal entry into Red Square they found the place almost empty. But such people as were there welcomed them eagerly.

Despite the absence of Soviet crowds, it was an historic march For never before had such a group from the West walked across the Soviet Union to demand that the country abandon armaments and give up the nuclear bomb. They had already asked the United States to do the same thing.

They were young and enthusiastic but tired as they reached the Moscow River at the edge of the city. There they were asked by the authorities to wait awhile so as not to arrive in Red Square ahead of schedule — just at the end of the lunch hour.

"When we get to Red Square," Bradford Lyttle, 33, of Chicago Ill., an organizer of the march, had said, "we will hold peace meetings and demonstrate in front of the Lenin Tomb."

But police had different ideas. The marchers found barriers across the road to keep people out. But so few people were trying to get in that the police, in some embarrassment, took the barriers away and allowed anyone to enter who wished. About 300 did so.

But speaking was prohibited, so for two hours the marchers stood in Red Square or handed out pamphlets to Soviets who appeared eager to read them.

'Copter Totes Five Refugees Over 'Curtain'

Second Such Lift In Week; 55 Others Escape In Wagon

BERLIN (UPI)—A U.S. Army helicopter flew five East German refugees over the Iron Curtain border to West Berlin Friday from the barbed-wire ringed Western enclave of Steinstuecken one mile inside East Germany.

The helicopter lift, second such flight in a week, came as Communist police fired bursts from their automatic pistols at other refugees who continued to brave death to flee to West Berlin.

In Goettingen, police disclosed that a group of 55 East Germans —including an 89-year-old woman, 23 children and an expectant mother-fled in one group Monday night to Western Germany.

Rags Muffle Horses' Hooves

The group, representing one-tenth of the residents of Boesseck-Endorf, bundled their belongings into a covered farm wagon, muffled the horses' hooves with rags, and rolled quietly across the border. The East Germans fled after hearing reports that the Communists planned to destroy or oust all inhabitants from the village because it lay too near West Germany.

The five airlifted East Germans had entered the Steinstuecken enclave when they saw signs in the village saying the territory was under American jurisdiction. They thought they were in West Berlin.

After a tense day of waiting, the American helicopter lifted out the refugees to Berlin.

Reds' Ire Aroused

A similar U.S. helicopter lift of seven refugees from Steinstuecken last week drew the ire of the Communists who retaliated by stringing a barbed wire loop around the 26-acre enclave.

Today's refugees were lifted from a new landing ground hastily hacked from a potato patch by Steinstucken residents.

At least a dozen more East Germans jumped, swam, slipped or smashed their way through the Communists Berlin border barrier and the frontier zone of death.

One young construction worker rammed his crane truck through the East-West wall under a hail of police bullets to reach West Berlin.

Unemployment Drops 457,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The country gained an inch or so in September on the stubborn problem of joblessness and can expect some real improvement this month, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

Unemployment dipped by 457,000 in September to a total of 4,085,000. Seasonal factors alone should cut this to 3.9 million in October, reducing joblessness below four million for the first time in a year, a department spokesman said.

On the unemployment side, Hurricane Carla spoiled an otherwise satisfactory record. Instead of dropping by a normal 800,000 as young workers headed back to school, total employment dropped by 1,501,000 because of hurricane ravages on farms and cities.

That reduced total employment to 67,038,000. Farm employment plummeted, since the job survey was made in the week following Carla when harvesting was at a standstill in large areas of Texas and other states.

Despite the fractional improvement in joblessness, department officials were disappointed. At 6.8 per cent of the civilian working force, the unemployment rate was a mere one-tenth of 1 per cent below the recession peak. It has clung to about that level for 10 months in a row.

Hamilton Takes Over As Foreign Aid Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) —Fowler Hamilton took office Tuesday as President Kennedy's foreign aid chief and said he would build "a new team at the top" of the program.

Kennedy said he has high hopes for the new agency for international development that Hamilton will head.

Hamilton told newsmen his first order of business would be to get top management for the agency. The new team at the top, he said, will involve 50 to 60 poeple.

JFK, Military Chiefs Discuss NATO Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy spent two hours Tuesday getting up-to-date reports on the efforts of this country and its allies to bolster the military might of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The briefing was begun by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was capped by a first-hand report from Europe by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of NATO.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who gave Kennedy a run-down Monday on the diplomatic situation in the Berlin crisis, sat in on the military discussions.

There was no word from the White House afterward on what was said. The participants left by a side door, with Rusk leaving a bit earlier than the others.

One purpose of the session was to enable Kennedy to catch up on the details of the latest developments in view of his meeting later this week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

There still was no date set for the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting, nor for the Russian's further talks with Rusk. But White House sources indicated that the President likely will receive the Kremlin's foreign policy expert on Friday.

Kennedy Vetoes Postal Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing budgetary needs, President Kennedy Tuesday night vetoed a bill which would have given $60.8 million in annual pay raises to the 560,000 postal workers through changes in the longevity system.

Kennedy said in a veto memorandum that "budgetary needs are too urgent to permit approval of this measure unattended by revenue increases."

Congress did not pass the postal rate increases recommended by both the Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations. And the President cited that factor. The vetoed bill, he said, would have raised the postal deficit to more than $800 million.

Tony Raised To Peerage

LONDON (AP) — Antony Armstrong-Jones is becoming an earl, with the right to sit in the House of Lords. This means that the baby soon to be born to him and Princess Margaret will not start life as a commoner.

Margaret's sister, Queen Elizabeth II, raised Armstrong-Jones to the peerage Tuesday. Earls rank below dukes and marquesses, but ahead of viscounts and barons.

Buckingham Palace said the photographer who married into Britain's royal family will be known as Viscount Linley and Earl of Snowdon. No such title existed before, although a prewar statesman had the title Viscount Snowden.

His child, if a son, will be known as Viscount Linley. If the baby is a girl she will be Lady Armstrong-Jones.

In either case the child will be fifth in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles, Prince Andrew, Princess Anne and Princess Margaret herself.

Typhoon Kills Six Okinawans

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Typhoon Hilda, described by the Weather Bureau as a "super class A typhoon," raked Okinawa Tuesday, killing six persons and damaging communication lines and hundreds of Okinawan homes.

But there were no casualties reported among the American military and their dependents on this U. S. bastion, even though winds up to 140 miles per hour roared across the island.

The dead included two crew members of a Greek ship which ran aground. Twenty-seven other crewmen from the Greek ship were reported rescued, Six local fishing vessels were reported missing.

Japan's Central Meteorological Agency in Tokyo said Tilda churned on toward mainland China after hitting this island.

Stranded Tourists Fly Home

LONDON (AP) — Ninety-eight Irish-Americans took off at last for home early Wednesday after being stranded for a week at Shannon Airport, Ireland.

Their long-delayed journey home began 15 minutes past midnight as their charter DC7C airliner lifted into the darkness bound for Chicago.

The plane loaded with travel-weary men, women and children is due in Chicago at noon (EST).

It marked the end of what began as a sentimental journey to the old homeland for the members of Chicago's Erin's Own Club and reached a climax of confusion and discomfort.

They had been stranded at Shannon Airport since last Wednesday when the plane due to fly them home after a month's vacation in Ireland failed to turn up.

They raised a tired cheer as an airline official gave them boarding instructions, then trooped out on to the runway to the waiting plane.

But it was no consolation for a party of 88 other Americans from Los Angeles, still stuck at Gatwick Airport outside London. They should have left at midday Tuesday, but their plane failed to show up.

Both the Shannon and Gatwick planes had been chartered from President Airlines of Los Angeles for the round-trip flights.

An agent of the line said nothing could be done for the Gatwick passengers until Wednesday at the earliest. Those who had funds available were trying to leave Tuesday night on other lines, even though they had been warned they would not be reimbursed. Others whose funds were gone were advised to get in touch with the U. S. Embassy in London for aid.

Hodges Cites Depressed Aid Shortcomings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Tuesday many of the counties designated by his department as depressed areas are really not in trouble and don't need federal aid.

"I wish a lot of them would pull out," Hodges told a news conference. He said many could do a proper economic development job using local resources.

Hodges was surprisingly outspoken in discussing the $394-million federal program which his department administers. However, not all his remarks were critical. He said at one point that applications for aid aren't being approved fast enough.

This seeming conflict stemmed from a distinction which Hodges drew between two types of counties designated as depressed.

In urging withdrawal from the program he was speaking primarily about rural counties which are eligible for aid because the average income of their farm families is less than $1,170 a year. There are 487 counties in this category.

Aid also is being offered to 376 other counties. Most of these are urban areas designated because of substantial and persistent unemployment.

A number of rural counties have protested against their inclusion in the program, and Hodges said they have a point.

"I think psychologically it is bad to be called a depressed area," he said.

NLRB Orders Firm Offer Jobs Back After Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Tuesday ordered a blouse-making firm to offer their old jobs back to about 200 workers fired when the company closed a Philadelphia plant last year and moved to Ware Shoals, S. C.

The National Labor Relations Board did so, it said, because the true purpose of the move was an unfair "device for attempting to wrest bargaining concessions" from the workers' union.

Involved in the ruling were Mac J. Cahn and Sidney L. Schiro, who owned Sidele Fashions, Inc., in Philadelphia and now operate Personality Sportswear, Inc., in Ware Shoals. It was a victory for the Philadelphia Dress Joint Board of the Garment Workers Union.

Cahn and Schiro, who manufactured women's blouses in Philadelphia for over 20 years, were given two choices by the NLRB:

1. Write all their discharged employes offering them substantially the same jobs they previously had at a reopened Philadelphia plant.

2. Offer them similar jobs at the Ware Shoals plant with full seniority and other rights. "dismissing, if necessary, all employes at the Ware Shoals plant," except for those who make an economy line $16.50 a dozen blouse in which the South Carolina plant specializes.

If the workers accept jobs at Ware Shoals, the NLRB said, their travel and moving expenses and that of their families must be paid by the factory owners.

In addition, the board ruled, the employes shall be reimbursed for loss of paay.

Canada Joins In Demands For Action

Corridor Efforts To End Secretary Deadlock Continue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Canada added its voice Tuesday to mounting demands that the United Nations be given a role in resolving the Berlin crisis.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Howard Green told the 100-nation General Assembly that while primary responsibility for a Berlin settlement rests with the Big Four, "the United Nations cannot abdicate its responsibility in relation to any problem which raises acutely the fundamental issue of peace or war."

In the continuing policy debate Green took a line similar to other speakers who have voiced concern over Berlin, and who have suggested a U.N. role in any settlement. The issue is not on the formal assembly agenda, but has been mentioned by virtually all delegates in debate.

Huddles continued in the corridors on how to resolve the deadlock over the naming of an interim secretary-general.

Criticism Called Unjustified

Some leftist-leaning Asian delegates expressed belief the United States acted too hastily Monday in rejecting the latest Soviet formula—the naming of a temporary head who would be directed to work in close consultation with three deputies now in the secretariat.

U.S. sources called such criticism unjustified, saying the United States regarded it necessary to insist that there be no acceptance of the Soviet troika principle, even in naming a stop-gap successor to Dag Hammarskjold.

Green suggested three specific ways in which the United Nations might be of aid in the Berlin situation:

1. Focus world attention on Berlin and leave the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union in no doubt that they have an obligation to reach a negotiated settlement.

Observer Capacity

2. With Big Four agreement, the United Nations could serve in an observer capacity for all of Berlin, and on access routes to the city surrounded by Communist East Germany.

3. The four powers might ask the United Nations to assume some responsibility for operating an international regime for the whole city of Berlin.

Green declared it is the duty of the United Nations to compel the big powers to halt testing of nuclear weapons.

Doctor-Dentist Draft Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon ordered Tuesday the draft of 716 doctors, dentists and veterinarians to tend the health of thousands of men being mustered into the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"This special call is necessary to meet the requirements of the current military buildup," the department said.

It asked Selective Service to call 495 doctors — 275 for the Army, 150 for the Air Force and 70 for the Navy.

A total of 154 dentists and 67 veterinarians were earmarked for Army service. Horses are a thing of the past in the Army, but veterinarians are needed, chiefly for food inspection.

U.S. armed might is in the process of being built up to 2,743,000 men. A total of 151,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists have started to put on uniforms. There also have been an expansion of the general draft, a step-up in recruiting and other measures to increase the number of U.S. men-at-arms.

She filed for divorce Tuesday morning, charging extreme mental cruelty, and the divorce was granted Tuesday afternoon. No details of the charges were mentioned. Prima did not contest the suit.

The two have long been personally estranged but have stuck together professionally.

They wound up an engagement here Monday night. Although neither was available for comment on their professional future, it was learned that Prima has signed for future appearances without Miss Smith.

He said he did so "with extreme reluctance."

The measure also continues for two years the 1958 National Defense Education Act providing loans to college student and other aids to teaching of science, mathematics and foreign languages.

The former, known as the impacted areas program, carries about $300 million a year in U.S. grant funds. The NDEA program has been running at about $250 million a year.

This measure was all that Congress granted the President of the ambitious federal aid to education program he proposed this year.

Unemployment Drops 457,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The country gained an inch or so in September on the stubborn problem of joblessness and can expect some real improvement this month, the Labor Department reported Tuesday.

Unemployment dipped by 457,000 in September to a total of 4,085,000. Seasonal factors alone should cut this to 3.9 million in October, reducing joblessness below four million for the first time in a year, a department spokesman said.

On the unemployment side, Hurricane Carla spoiled an otherwise satisfactory record. Instead of dropping by a normal 800,000 as young workers headed back to school, total employment dropped by 1,501,000 because of hurricane ravages on farms and cities.

That reduced total employment to 67,038,000. Farm employment plummeted, since the job survey was made in the week following Carla when harvesting was at a standstill in large areas of Texas and other states.

Despite the fractional improvement in joblessness, department officials were disappointed. At 6.8 per cent of the civilian working force, the unemployment rate was a mere one-tenth of 1 per cent below the recession peak. It has clung to about that level for 10 months in a row.

Hamilton Takes Over As Foreign Aid Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) —Fowler Hamilton took office Tuesday as President Kennedy's foreign aid chief and said he would build "a new team at the top" of the program.

Kennedy said he has high hopes for the new agency for international development that Hamilton will head.

Hamilton told newsmen his first order of business would be to get top management for the agency. The new team at the top, he said, will involve 50 to 60 poeple.

JFK, Military Chiefs Discuss NATO Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy spent two hours Tuesday getting up-to-date reports on the efforts of this country and its allies to bolster the military might of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The briefing was begun by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It was capped by a first-hand report from Europe by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of NATO.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who gave Kennedy a run-down Monday on the diplomatic situation in the Berlin crisis, sat in on the military discussions.

There was no word from the White House afterward on what was said. The participants left by a side door, with Rusk leaving a bit earlier than the others.

One purpose of the session was to enable Kennedy to catch up on the details of the latest developments in view of his meeting later this week with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

There still was no date set for the Kennedy-Gromyko meeting, nor for the Russian's further talks with Rusk. But White House sources indicated that the President likely will receive the Kremlin's foreign policy expert on Friday.

Kennedy Vetoes Postal Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing budgetary needs, President Kennedy Tuesday night vetoed a bill which would have given $60.8 million in annual pay raises to the 560,000 postal workers through changes in the longevity system.

Kennedy said in a veto memorandum that "budgetary needs are too urgent to permit approval of this measure unattended by revenue increases."

Congress did not pass the postal rate increases recommended by both the Kennedy and Eisenhower administrations. And the President cited that factor. The vetoed bill, he said, would have raised the postal deficit to more than $800 million.

14 Abandon Efforts To Save Gulf Oil Rig

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—Fourteen men who fought day and night to save a $5.5 million oil well drilling rig from pounding waves and violent winds abandoned the barge late Tuesday in the Gulf of Mexico.

Coast Guard Lt. B. F. Murphy of Corpus Christi said "all the men are safe." The Coast Guard cutter Boutwell was to take the men to Brownsville, Tex.

Tony Raised To Peerage

LONDON (AP) — Antony Armstrong-Jones is becoming an earl, with the right to sit in the House of Lords. This means that the baby soon to be born to him and Princess Margaret will not start life as a commoner.

Margaret's sister, Queen Elizabeth II, raised Armstrong-Jones to the peerage Tuesday. Earls rank below dukes and marquesses, but ahead of viscounts and barons.

Buckingham Palace said the photographer who married into Britain's royal family will be known as Viscount Linley and Earl of Snowdon. No such title existed before, although a prewar statesman had the title Viscount Snowden.

His child, if a son, will be known as Viscount Linley. If the baby is a girl she will be Lady Armstrong-Jones.

In either case the child will be fifth in line of succession to the throne after Prince Charles, Prince Andrew, Princess Anne and Princess Margaret herself.

Typhoon Kills Six Okinawans

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—Typhoon Hilda, described by the Weather Bureau as a "super class A typhoon," raked Okinawa Tuesday, killing six persons and damaging communication lines and hundreds of Okinawan homes.

But there were no casualties reported among the American military and their dependents on this U. S. bastion, even though winds up to 140 miles per hour roared across the island.

The dead included two crew members of a Greek ship which ran aground. Twenty-seven other crewmen from the Greek ship were reported rescued. Six local fishing vessels were reported missing.

Japan's Central Meteorological Agency in Tokyo said Tilda churned on toward mainland China after hitting this island.

Stranded Tourists Fly Home

LONDON (AP) — Ninety-eight Irish-Americans took off at last for home early Wednesday after being stranded for a week at Shannon Airport, Ireland.

Their long-delayed journey home began 15 minutes past midnight as their charter DC7C airliner lifted into the darkness bound for Chicago.

The plane loaded with travel-weary men, women and children is due in Chicago at noon (EST).

It marked the end of what began as a sentimental journey to the old homeland for the members of Chicago's Erin's Own Club and reached a climax of confusion and discomfort.

They had been stranded at Shannon Airport since last Wednesday when the plane due to fly them home after a month's vacation in Ireland failed to turn up.

They raised a tired cheer as an airline official gave them boarding instructions, then trooped out on to the runway to the waiting plane.

But it was no consolation for a party of 88 other Americans from Los Angeles, still stuck at Gatwick Airport outside London. They should have left at midday Tuesday, but their plane failed to show up.

Both the Shannon and Gatwick planes had been chartered from President Airlines of Los Angeles for the round-trip flights.

An agent of the line said nothing could be done for the Gatwick passengers until Wednesday at the earliest. Those who had funds available were trying to leave Tuesday night on other lines, even though they had been warned they would not be reimbursed. Others whose funds were gone were advised to get in touch with the U. S. Embassy in London for aid.

Hodges Cites Depressed Aid Shortcomings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Tuesday many of the counties designated by his department as depressed areas are really not in trouble and don't need federal aid.

"I wish a lot of them would pull out," Hodges told a news conference. He said many could do a proper economic development job using local resources.

Hodges was surprisingly outspoken in discussing the $394-million federal program which his department administers. However, not all his remarks were critical. He said at one point that applications for aid aren't being approved fast enough.

This seeming conflict stemmed from a distinction which Hodges drew between two types of counties designated as depressed.

In urging withdrawal from the program he was speaking primarily about rural counties which are eligible for aid because the average income of their farm families is less than $1,170 a year. There are 487 counties in this category.

Aid also is being offered to 376 other counties. Most of these are urban areas designated because of substantial and persistent unemployment.

A number of rural counties have protested against their inclusion in the program, and Hodges said they have a point.

"I think psychologically it is bad to be called a depressed area," he said.

Canada Joins In Demands For Action

Corridor Efforts To End Secretary Deadlock Continue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Canada added its voice Tuesday to mounting demands that the United Nations be given a role in resolving the Berlin crisis.

Canadian Foreign Secretary Howard Green told the 100-nation General Assembly that while primary responsibility for a Berlin settlement rests with the Big Four, "the United Nations cannot abdicate its responsibility in relation to any problem which raises acutely the fundamental issue of peace or war."

In the continuing policy debate Green took a line similar to other speakers who have voiced concern over Berlin, and who have suggested a U.N. role in any settlement. The issue is not on the formal assembly agenda, but has been mentioned by virtually all delegates in debate.

Huddles continued in the corridors on how to resolve the deadlock over the naming of an interim secretary-general.

Criticism Called Unjustified

Some leftist-leaning Asian delegates expressed belief the United States acted too hastily Monday in rejecting the latest Soviet formula—the naming of a temporary head who would be directed to work in close consultation with three deputies now in the secretariat.

U.S. sources called such criticism unjustified, saying the United States regarded it necessary to insist that there be no acceptance of the Soviet troika principle, even in naming a stop-gap successor to Dag Hammarskjold.

Green suggested three specific ways in which the United Nations might be of aid in the Berlin situation:

1. Focus world attention on Berlin and leave the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union in no doubt that they have an obligation to reach a negotiated settlement.

Observer Capacity

2. With Big Four agreement, the United Nations could serve in an observer capacity for all of Berlin, and on access routes to the city surrounded by Communist East Germany.

3. The four powers might ask the United Nations to assume some responsibility for operating an international regime for the whole city of Berlin.

Green declared it is the duty of the United Nations to compel the big powers to halt testing of nuclear weapons.

Doctor-Dentist Draft Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon ordered Tuesday the draft of 716 doctors, dentists and veterinarians to tend the health of thousands of men being mustered into the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"This special call is necessary to meet the requirements of the current military buildup," the department said.

It asked Selective Service to call 495 doctors — 275 for the Army, 150 for the Air Force and 70 for the Navy.

A total of 154 dentists and 67 veterinarians were earmarked for Army service. Horses are a thing of the past in the Army, but veterinarians are needed, chiefly for food inspection.

U.S. armed might is in the process of being built up to 2,743,000 men. A total of 151,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists have started to put on uniforms. There also have been an expansion of the general draft, a step-up in recruiting and other measures to increase the number of U.S. men-at-arms.

American Peace March Ends At Kremlin's Gates

MOSCOW (AP) — A band of American peace marchers completed a march Tuesday that had taken them nearly half-way around the world and demonstrated for disarmament at the front gates of the Kremlin.

When they made their triumphal entry into Red Square they found the place almost empty. But such people as were there welcomed them eagerly.

Despite the absence of Soviet crowds, it was an historic march For never before had such a group from the West walked across the Soviet Union to demand that the country abandon armaments and give up the nuclear bomb. They had already asked the United States to do the same thing.

They were young and enthusiastic but tired as they reached the Moscow River at the edge of the city. There they were asked by the authorities to wait awhile so as not to arrive in Red Square ahead of schedule — just at the end of the lunch hour.

"When we get to Red Square," Bradford Lyttle, 33, of Chicago Ill., an organizer of the march, had said, "we will hold peace meetings and demonstrate in front of the Lenin Tomb."

But police had different ideas. The marchers found barriers across the road to keep people out. But so few people were trying to get in that the police, in some embarrassment, took the barriers away and allowed anyone to enter who wished. About 300 did so.

But speaking was prohibited, so for two hours the marchers stood in Red Square or handed out pamphlets to Soviets who appeared eager to read them.

NLRB Orders Firm Offer Jobs Back After Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Tuesday ordered a blouse-making firm to offer their old jobs back to about 200 workers fired when the company closed a Philadelphia plant last year and moved to Ware Shoals, S. C.

The National Labor Relations Board did so, it said, because the true purpose of the move was an unfair "device for attempting to wrest bargaining concessions" from the workers' union.

Involved in the ruling were Mac J. Cahn and Sidney L. Schiro, who owned Sidele Fashions, Inc., in Philadelphia and now operate Personality Sportswear, Inc., in Ware Shoals. It was a victory for the Philadelphia Dress Joint Board of the Garment Workers Union.

Cahn and Schiro, who manufactured women's blouses in Philadelphia for over 20 years, were given two choices by the NLRB:

1. Write all their discharged employes offering them substantially the same jobs they previously had at a reopened Philadelphia plant.

2. Offer them similar jobs at the Ware Shoals plant with full seniority and other rights, "dismissing, if necessary, all employes at the Ware Shoals plant," except for those who make an economy line $16.50 a dozen blouse in which the South Carolina plant specializes.

If the workers accept jobs at Ware Shoals, the NLRB said, their travel and moving expenses and that of their families must be paid by the factory owners.

In addition, the board ruled, the employes shall be reimbursed for loss of paay.

Louis Prima, Keely Make Split Official

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Louis Prima and Keely Smith, top stars of records and the night club circuit, made their personal split official Tuesday.

She filed for divorce Tuesday morning, charging extreme mental cruelty, and the divorce was granted Tuesday afternoon. No details of the charges were mentioned. Prima did not contest the suit.

The two have long been personally estranged but have stuck together professionally.

They wound up an engagement here Monday night. Although neither was available for comment on their professional future, it was learned that Prima has signed for future appearances without Miss Smith.

Anti-Discrimination Bill Favored By Gov. Tawes

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he favors "in principle" legislation which would require service of Negroes in places of public accommodation and indicated such a bill will have his backing at the 1962 General Assembly.

"If the objective is to be reached in the immediate future, it must be done through legislation," Tawes told a news conference.

He said the same result could be achieved through "a lot of education and persuasion" of persons operating public establishments, but that it would probably require a good many years for statewide effect.

"In my opinion legislation is the best way to solve the problem," Tawes added.

Although taking the strongest position he has yet shown on the controversial subject of civil rights, the governor refrained from going beyond endorsing such legislation "in principle." 'I would have to see the bill and see what it does," he said.

Noting that the Legislative Council, between-sessions study arm of the General Assembly, now has the problem under study, Tawes added:

"I am inclined to believe the Legislative Council will come up with something that will be satisfactory to all of us."

The governor said his office has been working closely with the Kennedy administration in attempting to obtain equal service on U. S. Route 40, where some foreign diplomats have been refused service.

The governor said Maryland has seen a "gradual improvement" in race relations and noted that there are places along U.S. 40 which have been serving people of all races for years.

On other subjects, the governor:

1. Took issue with a statement by Philip Goodman, Baltimore City Council president, that Tawes will not seek a second term.

"Mr. Goodman doesn't speak for me—in any way at all. I'll speak for myself when the time comes," Tawes said. He said he has made it "abundantly clear" that he is not ready to make a statement about his candidacy.

2. Said he has received no requests from subdivisions or state Civil Defense authorities to include matching funds from the state in CD budgets. The state's 25 per cent share was discontinued in 1956, three years before Tawes took office, but the state was roundly criticized for it at a recent Civil Defense conference here.

Tawes said a program of improvements will be mapped after a transcript of the conference is typed and studied.

Boy Shoots Up School, Given Mental Tests

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — A 15-year-old schoolboy was to undergo psychiatric examination Tuesday after a shooting spree which terrified officials and students at Havre de Grace High School.

The youth, described as a good student, fired two volleys from a .32 caliber revolver, while holding a .22 caliber rifle in the other hand. The incident occurred Monday, but was not made public until Tuesday.

Four shots were fired in the office of principle Robert Banick, three striking a public address box and the other lodging in a wooden partition next to Banick.

The boy the son of an insurance company executive, then marched to the library and fired several more shots, scattering students. School authorities said no one was injured in the hail of bullets.

The youngster, who gave no warning or reason for his conduct, finally was disarmed by a Havre de Grace patrolman, John Rimel, the first policeman on the scene.

Rimel said he was disarmed by the youth, and two other officers arriving a few minutes later were kept out of the room at gunpoint.

"I lost all track of time, but it must have been almost an hour," said Chief Earl Walker, one of the first policeman to arrive at the school.

The chief ordered school officials to keep students in their classrooms, while Rimel attempted to calm the youth and disarm him

The boy was subdued and his weapons taken away after Rimel distracted him.

The psychiatric examination in Baltimore was ordered by juvenile authorities. The boy spent the night in the Harford County Jail at Bel Air.

School officials said the boy, a student at the school, recently had been suspended temporarily because of a prank in which a group of students painted their class numerals, 63, on a walkway.

Fumes Kill Homecoming Queen

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — Tragedy has marred the traditionally gay teen-age celebration of homecoming at Rock Island High School.

The senior girl chosen by juniors and seniors o reign as queen of the festival died without ever knowing of the honor her schoolmates had conferred upon her.

She was Kathleen Andrews, 17, who was found dead Monday of carbon monoxide poisoning in the Andrews home. Authorities blamed a defective furnace. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Andrews, were overcome by the fumes in their sleep and are in critical condition.

No girl will reign in her place at the festivities on Friday, the school youngsters have decided. Kathy was their choice of five nominees and no alternate will be designated.

The upper classes elect the queen but keep her identity secret until Homecoming Day. Blonde Kathy had looked forward to the big day as just one of the 1,800 pupils at the school but her mother had been let in on the well-kept secret.

Noted Economist, Labor Expert Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dr. Leo Wolman, 71, a retired Columbia University professor and a nationally known economist and labor expert, died Monday in New York after a long illness. He was a member of the National Labor Relations Board at one time.

Dr. Wolman, a native of Baltimore, began a long career in government, labor and education shortly after receiving his graduate degree from Johns Hopkins University in 1914.

Rees May Face Third Indictment

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Prince Georges County authorities plan to ask a grand jury later this month for a murder indictment against Melvin Davis Rees in the slaying of two girls in Northwest Branch Park June 15, 1955.

Rees, a Hyattsville jazz musician, was convicted last week at Spotsylvania, Va., of murder in the killing of Carroll V. Jackson. He was sentenced to death.

His attorney has filed a motion for a new trial. Earlier Rees was sentenced to life imprisonment by a U.S. District Court in Baltimore for the slaying of two other members of the Jackson family.

State's Atty. William L. Kahler said Tuesday that at the request of the state prosecutor in Spotsylvania, he was holding up the move to seek a third indictment against Rees. Kahler said the Virginia prosecutor feared that word of the move might influence a new Rees trial if his attorney's motion is granted.

The two girls, Michael Ann Ryan and Nancy Shomette, were killed as they walked through the wooded park near their home west of the University of Maryland.

Pen Check-Printing Operation Indicated

BALTIMORE (AP) — Officials of the Maryland Penitentiary said Tuesday they have found evidence of a check-printing operation at the prison print shop.

Penitentiary officials notified Baltimore police, who warned merchants in the city to be alert for counterfeit checks.

Vernon L. Peppersack, warden of the penitentiary, said he did not think any of the checks were in circulation. He said the warning was issued as a precaution.

Peppersack said a check "proof" — an impression taken from type — was found in the print shop. Police said the proof indicated the checks are of the payroll variety, bearing the name of a Baltimore plant and drawn on a fictitious bank.

The Princess For any Princess

(or any woman of taste)

A dainty little extension phone to save her time and footsteps

Princess, queen or any woman of taste will be delighted with the Princess phone. For it's the essence of femininity. Its slender line and diminutive size alone make it a thing of beauty. Add to this its delicate styling and lovely pastel colors and you understand why women find it irresistible.

But this petite bit of royalty is as practical as it is beautiful. In your kitchen or bedroom it will save you time and countless footsteps. An added convenience is the dial light. It glows softly. Then when you lift the receiver it lights up brightly so you can dial easily at night.

You can choose your Princess extension phone in pink, beige, blue, white or turquoise. A small separate ringer goes neatly on the baseboard. The cost is only $1.90 a month, plus tax, after a small charge for installation.

Call your Telephone Business Office or ask the man in the telephone truck for your Princess. It's little. It's lovely. It lights!

Nurses Find New Medical Discovery Relieves Bloat, Cramps, Pain That Cause Pre-Period Tension, Nerves

Helps Ease Women Into Their Periods By Releasing Excess Water Pressure On Sensitive Female Tissues.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — Medical science has developed an astonishing new formula that now does both: relieves menstrual cramps and pain as well as the accompanying pre-period tension and nervousness.

In tests conducted by hundreds of nurses on themselves, many reported nervousness and irritability were calmed. Abdominal bloat, soreness of breasts and fatigue were reduced. Cramps, depression and headaches were relieved. So effective is this new medical discovery that Registered Nurses make such statements as: "A great help both before and during menstruation." "Relieves all symptoms." "More effective than other preparations taken—including prescription drugs." All this without narcotics or tranquilizers, and without changing the regularity of the period in any way. Nurses confirm in this test that women actually ease through more comfortable periods.

A secret of this new discovery (called Trendar® Tablets) is the way it releases excess water fluids that doctors know build up in the days before the period. This build-up causes bloat, soreness, pressure on sensitive female tissues. Trendar Tablets work by releasing the excess water fluids so pressure in tissues is relieved and by relieving cramps and pain.

The ingredients in Trendar Tablets are safe and effective taken as directed. Trendar Tablets are available at all drug counters without a prescription.

Bringing Up Baby®

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

A happy baby is a baby beloved. But baby's inner security stems from knowing he is loved. And the ways you can tell him are wonderful, indeed: by the croon of your voice when you speak to him . . . your thistledown touch when you care for him. A cradled arm offered . . . a cry for help answered. Mother love may not show up in inches and ounces but it certainly makes a baby grow inside.

A happy association with food and feeding also contributes to baby's sense of security. If mealtimes are kept pleasant and relaxed, baby will learn that food is something to look forward to.

Mealtime satisfaction guaranteed when you serve Gerber Strained Foods. For they're specially prepared to make baby want to beckon for seconds. Flavors are naturally good . . . the texture ever so nice to the tongue. In fact, baby will enjoy getting the many different nutrients he needs from the many different varieties Gerber offers. Over 50 choices—each makes a specific nutritional contribution.

Super supper suggestion: Gerber Creamed Cottage Cheese with Pineapple, served with Gerber Sweet Potatoes and a Gerber Fruit. Just as luscious for lunch.

The experts say: physical well-being goes hand in hand with a sense of security. Happy is the baby who reaps all the benefits of adequate exercise, sweet sleep and a nutritionally sound diet. Makes sense, too. Babies with vim 'n vigor are less apt to be fussy . . . more apt to take new challenges in stride.

Something scrumptious in the way of eating enjoyment: Gerber Strained Egg Yolks. Sunny in color, creamy in texture, they're high in protein... rich in vitamin A and iron. Have you thought of using Gerber Egg Yolks to brighten baby's green vegetables or enliven his cereal! Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Nurses Find New Medical Discovery Relieves Bloat, Cramps, Pain That Cause Pre-Period Tension, Nerves

Helps Ease Women Into Their Periods By Releasing Excess Water Pressure On Sensitive Female Tissues.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — Medical science has developed an astonishing new formula that now does both: relieves menstrual cramps and pain as well as the accompanying pre-period tension and nervousness.

In tests conducted by hundreds of nurses on themselves, many reported nervousness and irritability were calmed. Abdominal bloat, soreness of breasts and fatigue were reduced. Cramps, depression and headaches were relieved. So effective is this new medical discovery that Registered Nurses make such statements as: "A great help both before and during menstruation." "Relieves all symptoms." "More effective than other preparations taken—including prescription drugs." All this without narcotics or tranquilizers, and without changing the regularity of the period in any way. Nurses confirm in this test that women actually ease through more comfortable periods.

A secret of this new discovery (called Trendar® Tablets) is the way it releases excess water fluids that doctors know build up in the days before the period. This build-up causes bloat, soreness, pressure on sensitive female tissues. Trendar Tablets work by releasing the excess water fluids so pressure in tissues is relieved and by relieving cramps and pain.

The ingredients in Trendar Tablets are safe and effective taken as directed. Trendar Tablets are available at all drug counters without a prescription.

Yonker Given Two Years In Perjury Case

A two-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary was handed a 30-year-old father of three children in Allegany County Circuit Court after he pleaded guilty to perjury.

In handing down the sentence, Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris noted that it is difficult to deliver such a verdict and impose a hardship on the family, but he emphasized that the courts cannot condone perjury.

Entering the guilty plea was Garth Yonker of Warrior Mountain. The case stemmed from his arrest on March 3 on Route 40 at Flintstone, by State Troopers Willis Foreman and John W. McFarland.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason said the troopers saw Yonker driving his truck near Flintstone on March 3.

The officers stopped him, Mason told the court, and charged him with driving with a revoked license.

After several postponements, the defendant filed for a change of venue from Magistrate Russell Nierman at Flintstone to Magistrate V. Brown Kooken at Westernport.

The hearing was held at Westernport before Magistrate Kooken on April 8 and Yonker and three witnesses testified that the defendant was not driving the truck but was a passenger.

However, the two troopers went to the state's attorney and told him they suspected perjury in the case. The three witnesses were than questioned and all three signed statements that Yonker had induced them to lie for him.

Yesterday, through his attorney, Lee C. Barnett, Yonker entered a plea of guilty to the perjury charge and also pleaded guilty in the appeal taken by the state on the magistrates decision in the revoked license case.

He was given two years for perjury and a suspended 30-day sentence in the County Jail on the driving charge.

Barnett, in making a plea for Yonker, pointed out that the case stemmed from the defendant's purchase of a new car in 1959. The salesman, the lawyer said, told Yonker he was fully insured, but when the defendant became involved in an auto accident he found that the coverage under the financing took care of only the physical liability and not the property damage.

Under the financial responsibility act, Yonker's license was then revoked when Yonker did not follow through.

Mason brought out that Yonker has been arrested on ten minor motor vehicle violations since August 1950 and has had five game law convictions.

In addition, Mason said, in 1954 he was convicted of petty larceny involving $100 and given a 90-day suspended sentence and $25 fine.

In April 1955 he was sentenced in Juvenile Court to 30 days in the county jail for contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Judge Harris, in sentencing Yonker, declared that perjury is a most serious offense. The courts can't function unless people tell the truth, he added.

He observed that there is possibly considerable perjury in the courts today, and it cannot be condoned with a light sentence.

The sentencing in cases involving hardship and suffering to the members of a man's family are most unpleasant and distressing to the courts, the jurist pointed out, but the courts have to discourage perjury.

Open Conference

MOSCOW (UPI)—Leading Russian biologists Tuesday opened a three-day conference on space biology at the Soviet Academy of Sciences, the Tass news agency said. The conference will hear more than 3 reports on Soviet space exploration.

ATTENDS SPACE AFFAIR—George K. Oss, of RD 3, Keyser, a member of the technical staff of the Polaris Development Department at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, is in Washington attending the 12th International Astronautical Congress which will conclude Saturday. He is attending the event, first held in the United States, as a member of the American Rocket Society.

Garbage Firm Begins Hauling

The firm of Joseph J. Riley and James W. Rexroad early Monday made their initial runs over Cumberland streets as they started their garbage hauling contract.

Equipped with the latest model garbage hauling trucks, Riley and Rexroad will have a one-year contract with option for renewal for three more years.

In view of the fact that the trucks just came off the assembly line last week, there still remain some "bugs" in them.

Riley said he and Rexroad drove the big vehicles themselves in the check runs. In addition to the new equipment, the firm has some of the old style trucks together with a new pickup truck.

The company has a 95 per cent modern fleet of vehicles, Riley pointed out.

Riley is a former city garbage hauling contractor while Rexroad has been in the trucking business for a number of years.

When organization of the work force is completed, the partners said, they will have 15 employes with Robert E. Powell, 128 South Lee Street, as supervisor.

Fire Course Today

A 20-week course in basic fire fighting for volunteer firemen of the area will begin today at 7 p. m. at Bowman's Addition Fire Hall. The course is sponsored by the University of Maryland, and instructor will be Cromwell Zembower, who has invited all interested fire fighters to attend.

Elks To Hold Youth Contest On Leadership

Cumberland Lodge 63, B. P. O. Elks will again sponsor a Youth Leadership Contest among high school students and later the Most Valuable Student (scholarship) contest, Exalted Ruler Glenwood Reel announced.

Plans for the leadership phase of the annual youth program are already underway and will be under the direction of John P. Moffatt Jr., lecturing knight.

State chairman of the Youth Activities Committee and in charge of the contest for the Maryland - Delaware - District of Columbia Elks Association is John E. Byrd Jr., loyal knight of Lodge 63, who conducted last year's local contests.

Last year's state leadership winner came from Cumberland and four local participants in the Leadership and Scholarship competitions received a total of $1,075 from local, state and Grand Lodge funds, Reel said.

The state leadership winner was William Hugh Dickinson of Fort Hill High School, who received a total of $175 from local and state funds and is a student at the University of Maryland.

Miss Sandra Roeder of Allegany High School, finished second in the state girls' competition and received $100 from the local lodge and state association. She is a student at Western Maryland College.

Roseann Weber, of Fort Hill, girls' scholarship winner here, received a $25 bond from Lodge 63. Miss Weber is attending Frostburg State Teachers College.

Major winner was Stephen David Kornblatt, of Allegany, local boys' winner in the scholarship contest, who recently was awarded a $600 Certificate of Award of the Elks National Foundation. The Award was made possible through the efforts of Elmer Bokesch, state scholarship chairman, and the local lodge and was awarded for outstanding scholarship and superiority in extra curricular activities.

The amount is to be credited to Kornblatt at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, where he is enrolled for this term. In addition, Kornblatt also received $150 from the state association as second-place state winner for boys and $25 bond from the local lodge, a total of $775.

Kornblatt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Martin Kornblatt, 504 Frederick Street.

Moffatt said he will contact local high schools and supply leadership contest blanks.

Wage Differential Sought By Former Garbage Contractor Here

The city's former garbage collector whose contract expired October 1 told the Mayor and Council Monday an additional $1,800 is due him under contract terms for employes' wages.

Emmett A. Dougherty met with council prior to Monday's regular session. His contention is that the money is due because of the new classification plan for city employes under which a worker goes from one step in the scale to another annually until he reaches a maximum for a particular position.

Dougherty signed the contract for a certain amount—$74,945—two years ago soon after the city adopted the first merit pay plan ordinance. Under that plan, the city negotiated with Dougherty and paid an additional $3,200 to meet salary increases. The city contends since that time there has been no general wage increase. Dougherty contends that the "step-up" system in the classification system of the city also applies to his men.

City Attorney William R. Carscaden expressed the opinion there is no legal basis for granting the request since Dougherty's men are not covered by the pay plan.

However, Dougherty, who received support from Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder on this point, claimed the contract placed liability on him by providing that he pay his employes the same as those employes of the city and setting forth a fine if he fails to do so.

Carscaden pointed out city truck drivers, for example, are getting the same pay as Dougherty's men if they are in the first step of the pay plan. Mrs. Roeder pointed out, however, that the city's drivers move up step by step.

Carscaden still contended the city plan did not affect the collector's drivers and added if Dougherty goes to court and the city is found liable, then there is some justification. But, he added, he saw no legal liability at this time.

Street Commissioner John J. Long told Dougherty to determine the exact amount of money involved before council could take any definite action.

The city's new collectors, the firm headed by Joseph J. Riley and James Rexroad, took over the local contract October 1.

Yonker Given Two Years In Perjury Case

A two-year sentence in the Maryland Penitentiary was handed a 30-year-old father of three children in Allegany County Circuit Court after he pleaded guilty to perjury.

Wage Differential Sought By Former Garbage Contractor Here

The city's former garbage collector whose contract expired October 1 told the Mayor and Council Monday an additional $1,800 is due him under contract terms for employes' wages.

Emmett A. Dougherty met with council prior to Monday's regular session. His contention is that the money is due because of the new classification plan for city employes under which a worker goes from one step in the scale to another annually until he reaches a maximum for a particular position.

Dougherty signed the contract for a certain amount—$74,945—two years ago soon after the city adopted the first merit pay plan ordinance. City Attorney William R. Carscaden expressed the opinion there is no legal basis for granting the request since Dougherty's men are not covered by the pay plan.

However, Dougherty, who received support from Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder on this point, claimed the contract placed liability on him by providing that he pay his employes the same as those employes of the city and setting forth a fine if he fails to do so.

Carscaden pointed out city truck drivers, for example, are getting the same pay as Dougherty's men if they are in the first step of the pay plan. Mrs. Roeder pointed out, however, that the city's drivers move up step by step.

Carscaden still contended the city plan did not affect the collector's drivers and added if Dougherty goes to court and the city is found liable, then there is some justification. But, he added, he saw no legal liability at this time.

Street Commissioner John J. Long told Dougherty to determine the exact amount of money involved before council could take any definite action.

The city's new collectors, the firm headed by Joseph J. Riley and James Rexroad, took over the local contract October 1.

With Thunderbird styling... Thunderbird power... and quality craftsmanship that sets a new standard for the automotive industry... the 1962 Ford Galaxies give you every essential feature of far costlier luxury cars.

A brilliant variation on a theme by Thunderbird, the Galaxie look will endure as long as elegance is in fashion. The car beneath the look will last for reasons that are harder to see—but easy to appreciate.

The 1962 Galaxie establishes a new standard of automotive quality. Silence is its seal. The new Galaxie is quieter by actual test than its famous predecessor—one of the quietest cars known. Galaxie says quality—and says it in a whisper.

Silent as a secret, swift as a rumor, Galaxie has the Thunderbird's talent for travel. An optional 390-cubic-inch Thunderbird V-8 brings horizons closer.

This is the car that introduces twice-a-year maintenance—with service-free features proven by five billion owner-driven miles. Routine service is reduced to a minimum—30,000 miles on many items, no more than twice a year or 6,000 miles on the rest.

You go 30,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications, two years or 30,000 miles without changing new engine coolant-antifreeze. Brakes adjust themselves automatically. Special processing protects vital body parts against rust and corrosion.

We suggest you see the new Galaxies for yourself. We are confident you will agree: it's pointless to pay more—or settle for less.

Shot In Act

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Joan Ann Dennis, billed as the "bullet proof girl" in a sideshow act, was reported in serious condition Tuesday after she was shot accidentally by her partner during a show at Griffith, 300 miles southwest of here.

Police believed an armored plated shield Miss Dennis wore over her abdomen during the act slipped just before the bullet was fired.

Pinto Bridge Report Given

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday received a copy of a letter which John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission has sent to U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall concerning the Pinto bridge.

Funk said he was sorry to hear that the project for a new bridge did not come under the program of the Area Redevelopment Administration. He said he would review the matter with the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads to determine if any federal aid could be obtained on the proposed project.

The present bridge, which is antiquated and not of sufficient size to handle the large volume of both truck and passenger cars traffic to and from the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory on the West Virginia side of the Potomac River, would be replaced with a new structure some distance upstream and also would carry the roadway over both the B&O and Western Maryland Railway tracks.

ABL To Save Million Dollars On Idea

A cost reduction idea will save Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center an estimated $1,356,600 a year, a spokesman for the company announced.

The idea, the spokesman said, is to standardize the grade of raw material used in making propellant and a plan to coordinate its purchase from the supplier.

R. P. Valenzula, of the Hercules Chemical Propulsion Divison, said the large savings in cost was realized through the efforts of many employes at ABL, personnel at Hercules Bacchus (Utah) Works and others at the Naval Propellant Project at Indian Head, Mr.

Valenzula said previously the grade of raw material purchased through the Naval Propellant Plant was different at ABL than that used at Bacchus. These two grades are now standardized so that both are the same, and thus saves the supplier from mixing a different batch of the propellant ingredient for each plant.

Man Is Sentenced To Year On Larceny

A Cresaptown man yesterday was sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction after he entered a plea of guilty in Allegany County Circuit Court to larceny of a power chain saw.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris heard the case filed against Lloyd W. Jerrel for breaking and entering the Liller Asphalt Company near Cresaptown and then taking a power chain saw.

The equipment, valued at $187.50 was sold by Jerrel, according to Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney who presented the state's case.

Earl E. Manges, who represented Jerrel, explained that the only reason the defendant took the saw was due to the fact that he was drinking and needed money.

Pack Nine Changes Meeting Days

Meeting days for Cub Scout Pack 9, of Cresaptown Methodist Church, have been changed from the third Thursday of each month to the first Thursday, it was announced by Donald Pyles, cubmaster.

Pyles said also that planning meetings will be held the third Wednesday of each month, with meeting places to alternate among committee members' homes.

The first pack meeting of the year is scheduled for Thursday at the church with a get-acquainted party slated.

Do You Suffer From Sick, Throbbing Migraine Headaches?

New Medical Discovery Never Before Available Now Released To Public. No Prescription Needed.

Today, science has announced a doctor's new formula which has been especially developed to relieve both the throbbing pain and sickish feeling of migraine-type headaches. Tests conducted by a practicing New York physician showed that in patient after patient—pain-relief and comfort were obtained in minutes. And all without the use of narcotics, codeine or ergot remedies which may upset the stomach and so further aggravate the condition.

This remarkable new formula is called Duplexin®. It is the first headache discovery in the history of medicine with this exclusive formula, (a unique 2-layer pink and white tablet). It relieves both headache pain and a sick, upset stomach with this exclusive formula.

Here are the medical facts why Duplexin is safer, faster, more effective—why it's unlike the usual headache remedies. Only Duplexin unites powerful doctor-approved pain relievers with this special stomach-soothing antacid. In seconds, Duplexin does what no aspirin or buffered aspirin can ever do. It contains exclusive, hospital-tested medications not found in any alkalizer or seltzer. Duplexin's white layer concentrates on relieving pain faster. Throbbing pain relieved in minutes. Its pink layer relieves that sickish feeling and protects your stomach as it keeps on speeding relief.

Duplexin also calms nervous stress (which so often causes migraine) and helps relieve depression. Taken at the first sign of an attack, Duplexin actually helps prevent those migraine pains. Ask for Duplexin Tablets at any drugstore. Now available without prescription.

Mt. Savage Bull Given Top Honor

Namreg Jeweler's Royal, registered Guernsey bull owned by Glen Savage Dairy Inc., Mt. Savage, has become a summarized sire, the American Guernsey Cattle Club announces.

To attain this distinction, a bull must have at least 10 daughters with official production records.

"Royal" has 11 tested daughters that have made 11 official production records. Their average production is 9,236 pounds of milk and 421 pounds of fat, when converted to a twice-daily milking, 305-day, mature equivalent basis.

The Guernsey bull was bred by William R. German, Monkton. Its sire was McDonald Farms Jeweler and its dam was Lynbrook Royal Cherry Blossom, which posted an official production record of 13,816 pounds of milk and 602 pounds of fat.

"Royal's" most illustrious daughter is Glen Savage Polly who has a production record of 11,371 pounds of milk and 519 pounds of fat, in the 305-2X division.

Apple Harvest Progressing On Schedule

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Hot September weather retarded the coloring of apples, but the harvest of the Red and Golden Delicious varieties was progressing on schedule last week, the Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Picking of Stayman and York varieties is expected to be in full swing in the Hancock area in about 10 days.

The harvest of most crops had been completed by last weekend, except for a few fields of tobacco in Southern Maryland and about 90 per cent of the corn crop.

The crop service said picking of corn was slightly behind last year's pace, when about 15 per cent had been cribbed by Oct. 1.

The harvest of corn for silage was virtually completed last week.

On the lower Eastern Shore, digging of sweet potatoes and picking of fall snap beans still was under way.

Early-planted soybeans were rapidly reaching maturity, but many late-planted fields were just beginning to yellow.

Having completed the harvest of row crops, some farmers last week began preparing fields for winter seedings of oats, barley and rye. Some farmers, however, were waiting for more moisture.

No ash with Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil. When the same test is tried with new Shell X-100 Premium all the oil vaporizes. The piston device is clean. There is no ash. You can expect a cleaner engine, less chance for knock and rough running.

Hot piston test shows that new Shell motor oil eliminates a trouble other oils can create. Read how this revolutionary oil can prolong engine life 5 ways.

Here is an astonishing fact you should know before you get your next oil change: Premium motor oils—with one exception—will produce a deposit called additive ash. This ash can contribute to rough running and knock.

Shell X-100 Premium is the one premium motor oil that cannot produce an additive ash deposit in your engine. Read how this remarkable oil formula helps your engine last longer.

This is Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil —in the white can with the red letters.

TODAY, every Shell dealer has new Shell X-100 Premium Motor Oil ready for your next change-over.

New X-100® Premium is unlike any other motor oil. It eliminates a deposit that all other premium motor oils help create themselves. This deposit is additive ash. It is caused by the metallic additives used to prevent scuffing, sludge deposits, oxidation, and so forth.

With each stroke of the piston, these additives can deposit metallic salts in the combustion chamber. Here they burn and form additive ash.

This crusty ash can build up in your combustion chamber, can cause your engine to knock and run roughly.

New X-100 Premium doesn't contain a single metallic additive. No metallic additives—no additive ash.

Additive ash is just one internal trouble that can cause engine problems. You should know about four others, too.

Helps prevent sludge from anti-freeze leaks

Remember this when you fill up with anti-freeze this fall: Anti-freeze can leak out of your cooling system into your crankcase.

Many oils can react chemically with permanent anti-freeze to form a horrible sludge—so sticky that it can bring an otherwise healthy engine to a standstill. Then you may be in for a repair bill.

New Shell X-100 Premium resists reaction with any sort of anti-freeze. It shrugs it off.

Disarms crankcase dirt

All engines accumulate crankcase dirt. The problem is to stop the many different kinds of dirt particles from ganging up and forming sticky sludge, which can clog your engine.

Most premium oils use a detergent additive to do the job. But the majority of these additives are metallic and cause that old devil—ash.

Shell's solution is to replace the detergent with a dispersant—a remarkable new ingredient called Alkadine.*

Alkadine works to disperse dirt particles—in effect, holds them apart—so that they don't form sticky sludge.

Alkadine additive is potent stuff. After 1,200,000 miles of city driving, engines lubricated with Shell X-100 Premium were torn down and inspected. The amount of sludge was astonishingly low. In some cases there was so little it could hardly be measured.

Ignores temperature changes

Many motor oils tend to become too thick when cold and too thin when hot. This is hard on your engine.

New Shell X-100 Premium is an all-year oil. Here's how it works. Alkadine has a molecular structure that resembles a basket of eels.

When the oil is cold, Alkadine's eel-like molecules curl up as if for comfort. In effect, they take up less space in the oil—and the oil flows freely through the tightest bearing.

When the oil is hot, the molecules uncurl, take up more room—and the oil resists thinning. New X-100 Premium lubricates just as effectively in June as it does in January.

Fights engine acid a new way

Automobile engines manufacture acid. It can cause more wear than friction.

Most motor oils combat this engine acid with alkaline additives. But the neutralizing effect of the oil gets weaker as engine acid eats up the alkalinity—until eventually such an additive stops working altogether.

Shell X-100 Premium doesn't depend on alkalinity. It actually plates all engine surfaces with a thin chemical film. The metal "adsorbs" some of the oil's protective qualities. Chemists call this phenomenon "chemisorption."

The process of "chemisorption" offers unique long-lasting protection against acid attack.

How much does it cost?

If you now use a premium motor oil, you'll get Shell X-100 Premium for about the same price.

If you're now making do with ordinary motor oil, you'll pay about $3.60 a year more—less than a penny a day extra—assuming you drive at about the national average of 10,000 miles a year and get regular oil changes.

Quite a bargain for the one motor oil that fights additive ash and four other troubles to help prolong the life of your engine.

Mt. Savage Bull Given Top Honor

Namreg Jeweler's Royal, registered Guernsey bull owned by Glen Savage Dairy Inc., Mt. Savage, has become a summarized sire, the American Guernsey Cattle Club announces.

To attain this distinction, a bull must have at least 10 daughters with official production records.

"Royal" has 11 tested daughters that have made 11 official production records. Their average production is 9,236 pounds of milk and 421 pounds of fat, when converted to a twice-daily milking, 305-day, mature equivalent basis.

The Guernsey bull was bred by William R. German, Monkton. Its sire was McDonald Farms Jeweler and its dam was Lynbrook Royal Cherry Blossom, which posted an official production record of 13,816 pounds of milk and 602 pounds of fat.

"Royal's" most illustrious daughter is Glen Savage Polly who has a production record of 11,371 pounds of milk and 519 pounds of fat, in the 305-2X division.

Apple Harvest Progressing On Schedule

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Hot September weather retarded the coloring of apples, but the harvest of the Red and Golden Delicious varieties was progressing on schedule last week, the Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday.

Picking of Stayman and York varieties is expected to be in full swing in the Hancock area in about 10 days.

The harvest of most crops had been completed by last weekend, except for a few fields of tobacco in Southern Maryland and about 90 per cent of the corn crop.

The crop service said picking of corn was slightly behind last year's pace, when about 15 per cent had been cribbed by Oct. 1.

The harvest of corn for silage was virtually completed last week.

On the lower Eastern Shore, digging of sweet potatoes and picking of fall snap beans still was under way.

Early-planted soybeans were rapidly reaching maturity, but many late-planted fields were just beginning to yellow.

Having completed the harvest of row crops, some farmers last week began preparing fields for winter seedings of oats, barley and rye. Some farmers, however, were waiting for more moisture.

River Low, Mercury Up Last Month

During the month of September, flow of the Potomac River at the Wiley Ford gage here averaged 279 cubic feet per second or 180 million gallons per day, according to the monthly report compiled by A. A. Vickers, local Geological Survey engineer.

This flow represents 84.8 per cent of the average for September over a 32-year period and coincides with the below average precipitation experienced here during the month. Measured rainfall, according to the Weather Bureau, was 1.52 inches, or 1.23 inches below the September average.

The daily river flow varied between 604 cubic feet per second or 390 million gallons on September 8 and 216 cubic feet per second or 140 million gallons on September 30. Included in the monthly average was an equivalent of 67.2 million gallons per day released from storage at Savage River Reservoir. This is 37.3 per cent of the flow at Cumberland.

During September, daily average temperatures were 71 degrees, five degrees above normal for the month.

World Series Today Unlike 1903 Variety

This World Series marks the 58th anniversary of baseball's classic, but after the first contest in 1903 there was an interregnum the next year because of a row between the two leagues.

As in all sports, great changes have come in baseball since Boston won the championship from Pittsburgh 58 years ago. Then the admission price was 75 cents. In the early days stars were paid as little as $1,200 a year. Now salaries in five figures are the rule.

But none of these changes has been more drastic than the style of play itself. World Series games now are contests between tight pitching and the boys with the big bats, those who try for the fences instead of a safe hit. Followers of the sport complain that the game is being ruined by the long-ball hitters — that the spectacular has taken the place of skill and cleverness. But the time to worry will be when fans stop complaining about something.

There is an axiom in baseball that in a short series anything can happen. World Series games for years went a maximum of nine games. Whatever story statistics of attendance at some parks may reveal, nationwide interest in the World Series will show no diminution this year.

They Bought An IBM Machine

It used to be that when there was a long distance, person-to-person call the telephone company fussed about it until the parties either connected or dropped dead. Now, the telephone company has an IBM machine and therefore the slips gets processed until nobody gets the call. The art of processing must be a very intricate one, known only to virtuosi who are masters of a great skill.

So a fellow by a name I do not know calls me when I am out and I call back. In the first place, my own girl does not ask for a front name. Suppose she has a call from Mr. Smith. Which Smith? There are millions of Smiths. All right, she gives a number. Maybe the number is wrong. Maybe he called from somebody else's number. Suppose anything happened, if I know that he is Montmorency Smith, there is no prospect of a mistake. But if there is not first name, back in the old days, the operator got it for you. She was a smart girl, the old-fashioned operator. Also old-fashioned secretaries had no Phi Beta Kappa keys but they were trained in commercial high schools and therefore knew their business.

So I spend precisely 30 minutes trying to find the party because I do not want to offend him by not returning his call. But the telephone company.. hired an IBM machine and the slips get processed and nobody can figure out what to do about anything because the IBM machine will not talk. It will not tell anything to anybody except in its own good time and by due process.

When I first came to summer in the woods about Otis, Massachusetts, we had an 1890 telephone. We had to ring the bell manually and we might have a conversation with the operator or his wife about the state of the nation but they knew how to get numbers. One spoke to a human being not to an IBM machine or some other mechanism. There were no dials but we got the numbers we wanted.

In fact, one Saturday night, a priest came to visit me about a lecture date. He stayed overnight and he wanted to know where to say Mass on Sunday. I got on the telephone to make inquiries but not being too acquainted with such matters, I hit on a time schedule which was out of line. So the male telephone operator all on his own, said to me:

"If you want to know something about these here parts, ask me."

He thereupon told me all about the churches in the vicinity. He had spent a pleasant half hour listening to my efforts to do things my own way. We never got sore about anything in those days because the world was friendly and peaceful and nobody quite hated anyone else. It was the period between World War I and World War II. After World War II, the whole world seemed shot to blazes.

So the IBM machine could not help but may an hour after I had initiated the effort to discover the man who wanted to talk to me, a sweet voice called on the telephone. She had somehow discovered who my man is and when he will talk to me. She sounded lovely until she told me that the slips were not saved because of the IBM machine. They went to the comptroller's office. She did not say what he did with them.

It is like changing an address for a magazine. It takes so long that after one initiates the change, nothing happens until he is ready to change back again. The IBM machine has replaced the human mind and human interest. I do not quarrel with Mr. Watson's company, only with the machines.

I have no enmity to automation. It is obviously a technical improvement or it would not be used. It must save time and money but it does wear one's nerves if he has to talk to the machine instead of to a girl with a pretty voice. Maybe we shall all punch holes in ourselves and fit our holes into the automatic machine.

I once watched these machines work in the FBI. They could get a red-haired safe-breaker with a mole on his nose who spoke with a southern European accent faster than the crook could steal. I watched this show in amazement and wondered at the marvels of automatic machinery. But I marvel no more

All I want is to get my telephone number when I want it without fuss, excitement, shouting, yelling, apologies, snide superiority by those who know why the slip is not available. Slip, snip! Get me the number!

Failure In Syria Intensifies Nasser's Woes

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The room was small, cleaply white-washed, and up three flights of rickety stairs, which smelled of garbage. But the room's occupant, Akram Hourani, leader of the Baath party of Syria, master of the mob in Damascus, made his visitor forget his surroundings. He was fervent, electric, menacing, half-convincing, and altogether impressive.

That was before Hourani and his ally, the master of the Syrian secret police, Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, had organized their coup that handed Syria over to Ekypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser. The next time this correspondent saw Akram Hourani was just after the now-disrupted union of Syria with Egypt. On this occasion, the room was vast, cavernous, and richly decorated, as befitted the office of the new vice-president of the newly united Arab Republic. But in his new office in one of the old palaces in Cairo, Akram Hourani was pale, uneasy, oddly shrunken, and about as impressive as a disappointed rug peddler.

The former master of the Damascus mob had ceased to be master of anything at all in Cairo, where his ex-hero, Nasser, was the absolute ruler and dictator. For this very reason, not really long after this second meeting, Hourani angrily departed from the vice-presidency of the UAR and retreated into total obscurity in a Syrian provincial town.

At a much later date, the story of Hourani also became the story of Abdel Hamid Serraj. From the moment of the union of Syria with Egypt, Nasser trusted no Syrian with any authority whatever, in Syria or elsewhere, except the hard-faced Syrian police chief. Then, not long ago, he ceased to trust Serraj. And when Serraj went, and Syria was fully ruled by Egyptian interlopers, the time was ripe for the explosion which has now occurred.

It is important to understand the background of the Syrian revolt against Nasser, because this revolt is an enormously significant event. It is nothing less, in truth, than the first serious pointer towards the next phase of the nationalist revolution that has been going on all over the world.

With only one or two partial exceptions like India, this nationalist revolution has had much the same basic characteristics in all the countries which it has engulfed and liberated. There is always the same nationalist propaganda, high-sounding, but ultimately reducible to the slogan, "Kick the dirty foreigners out!"

There is always a "charismatic leader," as the high thinkers phrase it, meaning one who leads by stirring the emotions and fanning the passions of his followers. And there are always the same mobs, gripped by the same paroxysms of passion fanned by the leader. Such a leader Nasser was, and is; and there is little doubt that he is one of the ablest leaders of this type.

All of these leaders must ultimately face the same difficulty which has now overtaken Nasser. The difficulty is that when the dirty foreigners have been kicked out, there is no one left to blame for anything that goes wrong except the leader himself. The paroxysms of passion diminish as the years go by. The mobs that writhed and howled instead begin to think, in particular, about what the leader has done and is doing for them.

This is the critical moment. The critical moment came unusually rapidly in Syria, because Nasser, being a suspicious authoritarian, like almost all such leaders, insisted on using his Egyptians to rule his added province overseas.

At the first meeting already described, Akram Hourani positively screamed with indignation at "the insult to Arab unity," because the reporter had suggested that there were differences between Syrians and Egyptians. But the differences were and are very real. The Syrians bitterly resented their new masters, as foreigners though Arabs, and they also thought poorly of Nasser's practical performance in their behalf.

All the same, Syria is only in part a special case. At home in Egypt, too, Nasser's problems have been accumulating alarmingly. Here, too, the emotions have been growing more tepid, and the cold processes of thought have begun to be used again. Furthermore, Nasser's problems in Egypt will be vastly intensified by the sudden failure of his charisma in Syria.

The trouble is that kicking out the dirty foreigners does not help much to reduce the birthrate, or increase individual well-being, or organize a new, well-rooted mode of national life.

SENATE SMITHS — Sens. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Benjamin A. Smith of Massachusetts have done a bit of research. They proudly announce that more Smiths have served in the Senate than any other name.

There have been in U. S. history, they claim, 22 Senator Smiths, as against 15 Johnsons, 12 Williamses, 12 Browns and eight Joneses.

The most colorful Smith, according to this research, was Sen. Marcus Aurelius Smith, an Arizona Democrat. He was prosecuting attorney of Tombstone in its heyday and his office was said to be two jumps from the courthouse and one from the saloon.

Smith served in the Senate for nine years beginning in 1912, and wrote his own epitaph as follows: "Here lies a good man — a lover of fast horses, pretty women, and good whisky."

Another Smith decided to build a career on a different name, Rhett, and campaigned his way into the Senate, where he served for two years.

The longest-serving Smith in the Senate was "Cotton Ed," of South Carolina who served for 35 years; the shortest was one from Delaware who served 17 days.

Only one Smith ever graduated from Harvard. He is the present incumbent from Massachusetts who was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of President Kennedy.

10 Congressmen Put Visit With Liz Ahead Of Legislative Work

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—While Congress was sweating out the closing days of the legislative jam, 10 Congressmen, instead of being on hand to vote, had nothing better to do than wait three hours to see Elizabeth Taylor in Rome.

In the end she wouldn't see them. She was as busy shooting her new picture, "Cleopatra," as they should have been in Washington.

The 10 Congressmen were traveling partly at the expense of the Italian government, partly at taxpayers' expense, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Italian unification. When they arrived in Rome, however, they lost little time in heading for the 20th Century-Fox lot to see the English beauty who is playing the part of Cleopatra.

Three hours after reaching the set they were still waiting. Finally they gave up.

Those who put junketing ahead of legislative work included: Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem, N. Y.; Victor Anfuso and Abe Multer of Brooklyn, Seymour Halpern and Alfred Santangelo of Manhattan, Dominick Daniels and Peter Rodino of New Jersey, Harold Cooley of North Carolina, John Dent of Pennsylvania, and Roland Libonati of Chicago. All but Halpern are Democrats. Some are excellent Congressmen, but why they didn't stay on deck to vote is a question they will have to answer to their voters.

Republicans are in a quandary as to which Republican to believe as between ex-Vice President Nixon and ex-Gov. Goodie Knight in the latter's charge that a Nixon emissary offered Knight any job he wanted to stay out of the California gubernatorial race.

In making their decision, they can't forget two other instances in which Nixon used emissaries.

One was ex-Congressman Oakley Hunter of California, Nixon's emissary to Jimmy Hoffa who arranged teamster support for Nixon last November in return for holding up Hoffa's indictment for taxes in Orlando, Fla.

The other was Charley Willis, formerly on the White House staff, with Max Rabb, secretary of Ike's cabinet who acted for Nixon in getting Congressman Adam Clayton Powell to come out for Eisenhower in 1956. Following this, moves were made to drop Powell's income tax case.

The Hoffa-Nixon deal was arranged by ex-Congressman Hunter at a meeting with Hoffa at the Americana Hotel in Miami Beach. Afterward Hunter wrote an eight-page letter to Nixon, so there can be no denying what happened.

"After my meeting with you," the Republican ex-Congressman wrote the then Vice President, "I assured — — (a Hoffa intermediary) I was interested in the teamsters' program for political action and would be very happy to discuss the subject with Mr. Hoffa."

Continuing, Hunter reported: "Hoffa was in a pleasant, almost exuberant mood, and upon entering the room immediately took off his coat as if to indicate that he was not recording our conversation. I reciprocated by removing my coat also." (This was to show neither had a hidden recording device).

"We then got into a discussion of what Hoffa expected from the government as far as he and his union were concerned and what he might do for the political condidates whom he favored . . . Hoffa stated that an outright endorsement of you would most likely do more harm than good. He recognizes that he is 'hot'. . . . He feels that open endorsement of local officials of his union in certain cities would definitely benefit a candidate . . .

"He declared himself perfectly capable of figthing his own battles . . . He did say that he had one specific request which he felt was deserved . . . He felt that Judge Dickinson Letts, the federal judge to whom the monitors answered, should be taken out of the case . . ."

Hoffa lived up to his part of the agreement, had his teamsters discreetly support Nixon, probably tipped the scales in the state of Ohio. But after the election, the Justice Department indicted Hoffa in Orlando anyway. This brought another letter from the Republican ex-Congressman to Hoffa, on Dec. 8, 1960.

"I was sorry to hear of the indictment against you in the Orlando matter," Hunter wrote. "I know for a fact that your side of the case was put before the Vice President and he discussed the case with the Attorney General, Bill Rogers.

"It would be my surmise that Bill Rogers acted as he did for reasons of his own," Hunter added. "Mr. Nixon having lost the election, I doubt that he has since been in a position to exercise any decisive degree of influence."

Adam Clayton Powell's Case

In the Adam Clayton Powell case, the Harlem, N.Y., Congressman first went direct to Nixon in the late summer of 1956, offered to support the Republican ticket and rally the Negro vote for Eisenhower. Thereafter, two trusted emissaries handled the matter. Max Rabb, Secretary of the Eisenhower Cabinet, and Charley Willis, former assistant Sherman Adams. They went to New York, arranged for Powell to see Ike, make a statement from the steps of the White House calling on Negroes to vote Republican.

Powell was to get around $50,000 for campaign expenses, and his secretary, Hattie Dodson, then in the federal penitentiary in Alderson, W. Va., for income tax evasion, was to be released immediately. She was released Oct. 17.

After the 1956 election, the Justice Department sent word to the U. S. Attorney's office in New York to forget about the Powell grand jury which had been meeting on Powell's tax case, but a rebellious Assistant U. S. Attorney and a runaway grand jury indicted Powell anyway.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

Scotland Light came up out of the morning mist dead on the bow. Away We Go IV was doing 15.20 knots on a course of 150. The sea was flat, except for the long green groundswells. We were out for bluefish and the only way you could keep from catching them would be to hide in the galley.

The ship-to-shore radio was full of reports from other fishermen. "Charlie, we're down a little east of the acid bank and we're murdering the blues. Wanna meet us? Come back, Charlie." "This is Charlie aboard the S.S. I.O.U. We're killing the blues off the Long Branch gastank. We'll stay here, Red."

We had gassed up at Zobel's on the Shrewsbury and Mike Bivona topped the tanks and said: "Wish I was going with you. They're murdering the blues between Scotland Light and Asbury." We stopped at Cottrell's in Highlands to buy chum, which is an ugly mess of ground-up fish. Mr. Cottrell, who was dropping 500 pounds of live lobsters into a trap below the dock, said: "This is the day. The blues are real hungry."

On the way out of Sandy Hook Bay, we passed some boats inbound and we signalled to ask how they did. They held up specimens which must have weighed between five and eight pounds. I don't like to mess up the aft deck of Away We go, but fish like that soften my sensitivity.

The boat is 35 feet long, with teak decks, a big cabin, a flying bridge, and twin 225 Grays. She moves swiftly and without strain, like a frightened lady and, with white leather chairs and cushions aft, she is hardly the type for cleaning fish.

Still, her record at catching fish is bad, and I wanted to correct it. Last year, she caught two anemic blues and one bonita. I've seen rented rowboats which do better. On this day, everybody aboard had that can't-miss attitude. My brother-in-law Emil, a man with size 14 feet, whistled as he set the rigs on the deep sea lines. My sister Adele once said of him: "He'd rather fish than eat." Then she pondered a moment and said: "No. That's a lie."

We passed Scotland Light, and ran the lures out. One skipped the surface. The other was deep. We slowed to 1200 r.p.m.'s on one engine and the ground swells lifted the boat high, and set it down easily. My father, who will be 78 this month, went below to the head and, what ever he had in mind was knocked out of it when he executed a three-cushion billiard around the little room.

A nice-looking white boat passed to port. He blew a salute, but it wasn't until it passed that we could see it was Irish Mist. This is owned by my rich friends Jack and Dorothy Sullivan. They were busy murdering the blues. We whistled back to them, and kept moving south.

At Asbury, we turned out further to sea. The two lines drooped aft, listless in a dead sea. The sun was high now, and it caromed off the sea in hot copper coins. Kelly unwrapped the sandwiches, and sent a peanut butter on rye — thick, please — and a cup of coffee up to the flying bridge.

Kay Herman, who is related to Emil Herman by marriage, was listening to jokes and laughing, when she said: "I don't feel too good. It must be the sun." My father said his stomach felt funny, but he didn't laugh. Kelly passed out some highballs, and Bonamine pills. This combination may not stop seasickness, but it is guaranteed to make you wish you were dead. Several people starting wishing almost at once.

Ambrose Light was back off the port quarter. Some Long Island boats went by and everybody was cleaning fish. The boats were followed by long veils of sea gulls, waiting for the excess bait to be thrown over. We dropped some chum aft and made a nice slick and ran back and forth through it. No strikes. No fish.

I turned the ship-to-shore phone on again and listened. There were some screeches and whistling wails, and then the voices of men who said they had murdered enough blues and were going home. I killed the engine and we tried some bottom fishing. Nada. My brother-in-law lost his bait to a clever crab. We couldn't hit the sea if we fell overboard.

We trolled an hour on a north leg, passing the outbound Italian liner Augustus, which refused to get out of our way, and went on toward Roamer Shoals light. By this time, nobody was attending the lines. They were all in the cabin drinking and laughing.

At 5 p. m. we quit and hauled the lines in, and I opened both engines to 3200 r. p. m.'s and Away We Go moved up on top and threw the white foam aside as we came into the bay and up the river. At 6 we were docking and my daughter Gayle was ashore, helping with the lines and looking at us inquiringly.

"Well?" she said. I looked down from the bridge. "Well What?" I said. "Where are the fish?" she said. "Why don't you go inside," I said, "and help set the table for dinner?".

Variety Is Still The Spice Of Life After 65

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Retirement is a time of life when a person concentrates on leisure but does just enough work to justify his existence. There is a tremendous amount of vitality left in most retired individuals that society doesn't utilize. It should be tapped, to add life to the remaining years.

Leisure can be gratifying and productive but it should be free from responsibilities and tensions. From all sides we hear that every oldster must have a hobby. I disagree. Hobbies are relaxing at any age but if the elderly person doesn't care for such avocations, why force it? There is little satisfaction in doing something just to kill time.

Even with a hobby, no one can spend all his waking hours collecting stamps, fishing, or doing needlework. Variety as the spice of life does not end at 65. Some aged men and women like to break up the day or evening by looking at television, reading, or playing games.

A dog makes a wonderful pet and companion for the elderly person who is recovering from a heart attack or other serious illness. Taking the animal out for a daily airing will stimulate the convalescent to walk out of doors. The exercise is beneficial and the owner will meet friends and chat with neighbors as he strolls around the block.

It helps also to learn to loaf. Try not to bother busy people and don't let them tell you that idleness is a pure waste of time. A long walk, leisurely conversation, and an hour long nap are not lost hours.

Meanwhile, cultivate a sense of humor and try to be grateful for favors received. Everyone loves an oldster with these attributes. There are too many who are mean, demanding, or sour and the youngsters that you can adtake advantage of their age. Show just to the changes that life brings — by being happy and grateful for being alive.

World Series Today Unlike 1903 Variety

This World Series marks the 58th anniversary of baseball's classic, but after the first contest in 1903 there was an interregnum the next year because of a row between the two leagues.

As in all sports, great changes have come in baseball since Boston won the championship from Pittsburgh 58 years ago. Then the admission price was 75 cents. In the early days stars were paid as little as $1,200 a year. Now salaries in five figures are the rule.

But none of these changes has been more drastic than the style of play itself. World Series games now are contests between tight pitching and the boys with the big bats, those who try for the fences instead of a safe hit. Followers of the sport complain that the game is being ruined by the long-ball hitters — that the spectacular has taken the place of skill and cleverness. But the time to worry will be when fans stop complaining about something.

There is an axiom in baseball that in a short series anything can happen. World Series games for years went a maximum of nine games. Whatever story statistics of attendance at some parks may reveal, nationwide interest in the World Series will show no diminution this year.

These Days

They Bought An IBM Machine

It used to be that when there was a long distance, person-to-person call the telephone company fussed about it until the parties either connected or dropped dead. Now, the telephone company has an IBM machine and therefore the slips gets processed until nobody gets the call. The art of processing must be a very intricate one, known only to virtuosi who are masters of a great skill.

So a fellow by a name I do not know calls me when I am out and I call back. In the first place, my own girl does not ask for a front name. Suppose she has a call from Mr. Smith. Which Smith? There are millions of Smiths. All right, she gives a number. Maybe the number is wrong. Maybe he called from somebody else's number. Suppose anything happened, if I know that he is Montmorency Smith, there is no prospect of a mistake. But if there is not first name, back in the old days, the operator got it for you. She was a smart girl, the old-fashioned operator. Also old-fashioned secretaries had no Phi Beta Kappa keys but they were trained in commercial high schools and therefore knew their business.

So I spend precisely 30 minutes trying to find the party because I do not want to offend him by not returning his call. But the telephone company hired an IBM machine and the slips get processed and nobody can figure out what to do about anything because the IBM machine will not talk. It will not tell anything to anybody except in its own good time and by due process.

When I first came to summer in the woods about Otis, Massachusetts, we had an 1890 telephone. We had to ring the bell manually and we might have a conversation with the operator or his wife about the state of the nation but they knew how to get numbers. One spoke to a human being not to an IBM machine or some other mechanism. There were no dials but we got the numbers we wanted.

In fact, one Saturday night, a priest came to visit me about a lecture date. He stayed overnight and he wanted to know where to say Mass on Sunday. I got on the telephone to make inquiries but not being too acquainted with such matters, I hit on a time schedule which was out of line. So the male telephone operator all on his own, said to me:

"If you want to know something about these here parts, ask me."

He thereupon told me all about the churches in the vicinity. He had spent a pleasant half hour listening to my efforts to do things my own way. We never got sore about anything in those days because the world was friendly and peaceful and nobody quite hated anyone else. It was the period between World War I and World War II. After World War II, the whole world seemed shot to blazes.

So the IBM machine could not help but may an hour after I had initiated the effort to discover the man who wanted to talk to me, a sweet voice called on the telephone. She had somehow discovered who my man is and when he will talk to me. She sounded lovely until she told me that the slips were not saved because of the IBM machine. They went to the comptroller's office. She did not say what he did with them.

It is like changing an address for a magazine. It takes so long that after one initiates the change, nothing happens until he is ready to change back again. The IBM machine has replaced the human mind and human interest. I do not quarrel with Mr. Watson's company, only with the machines. I have no enmity to automation. It is obviously a technical improvement or it would not be used. It must save time and money but it does wear one's nerves if he has to talk to the machine instead of to a girl with a pretty voice. Maybe we shall all punch holes in ourselves and fit our holes into the automatic machine.

I once watched these machines work in the FBI. They could get a red-haired safe-breaker with a mole on his nose who spoke with a southern European accent faster than the crook could steal. I watched this show in amazement and wondered at the marvels of automatic machinery. But I marvel no more

All I want is to get my telephone number when I want it without fuss, excitement, shouting, yelling, apologies, snide superiority by those who know why the slip is not available. Slip, snip! Get me the number!

Failure In Syria Intensifies Nasser's Woes

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

The room was small, cleaply white-washed, and up three flights of rickety stairs, which smelled of garbage. But the room's occupant, Akram Hourani, leader of the Baath party of Syria, master of the mob in Damascus, made his visitor forget his surroundings. He was fervent, electric, menacing, half-convincing, and altogether impressive.

That was before Hourani and his ally, the master of the Syrian secret police, Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, had organized their coup that handed Syria over to Ekypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser. The next time this correspondent saw Akram Hourani was just after the now-disrupted union of Syria with Egypt. On this occasion, the room was vast, cavernous, and richly decorated, as befitted the office of the new vice-president of the newly united Arab Republic. But in his new office in one of the old palaces in Cairo, Akram Hourani was pale, uneasy, oddly shrunken, and about as impressive as a disappointed rug peddler.

The former master of the Damascus mob had ceased to be master of anything at all in Cairo, where his ex-hero, Nasser, was the absolute ruler and dictator. For this very reason, not really long after this second meeting, Hourani angrily departed from the vice-presidency of the UAR and retreated into total obscurity in a Syrian provincial town.

At a much later date, the story of Hourani also became the story of Abdel Hamid Serraj. From the moment of the union of Syria with Egypt, Nasser trusted no Syrian with any authority whatever, in Syria or elsewhere, except the hard-faced Syrian police chief. Then, not long ago, he ceased to trust Serraj. And when Serraj went, and Syria was fully ruled by Egyptian interlopers, the time was ripe for the explosion which has now occurred.

It is important to understand the background of the Syrian revolt against Nasser, because this revolt is an enormously significant event. It is nothing less, in truth, than the first serious pointer towards the next phase of the nationalist revolution that has been going on all over the world.

With only one or two partial exceptions like India, this nationalist revolution has had much the same basic characteristics in all the countries which it has engulfed and liberated. There is always the same nationalist propaganda, high-sounding, but ultimately reducible to the slogan, "Kick the dirty foreigners out!"

There is always a "charismatic leader," as the high thinkers phrase it, meaning one who leads by stirring the emotions and fanning the passions of his followers. And there are always the same mobs, gripped by the same paroxysms of passion fanned by the leader. Such a leader Nasser was, and is; and there is little doubt that he is one of the ablest leaders of this type.

All of these leaders must ultimately face the same difficulty which has now overtaken Nasser. The difficulty is that when the dirty foreigners have been kicked out, there is no one left to blame for anything that goes wrong except the leader himself. The paroxysms of passion diminish as the years go by. The mobs that writhed and howled instead begin to think, in particular, about what the leader has done and is doing for them.

This is the critical moment. The critical moment came unusually rapidly in Syria, because Nasser, being a suspicious authoritarian, like almost all such leaders, insisted on using his Egyptians to rule his added province overseas.

At the first meeting already described, Akram Hourani positively screamed with indignation at "the insult to Arab unity," because the reporter had suggested that there were differences between Syrians and Egyptians. But the differences were and are very real. The Syrians bitterly resented their new masters, as foreigners though Arabs, and they also thought poorly of Nasser's practical performance in their behalf.

All the same, Syria is only in part a special case. At home in Egypt, too, Nasser's problems have been accumulating alarmingly. Here, too, the emotions have been growing more tepid, and the cold processes of thought have begun to be used again. Furthermore, Nasser's problems in Egypt will be vastly intensified by the sudden failure of his charisma in Syria.

The trouble is that kicking out the dirty foreigners does not help much to reduce the birthrate, or increase individual well-being, or organize a new, well-rooted mode of national life.

SENATE SMITHS — Sens. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine and Benjamin A. Smith of Massachusetts have done a bit of research. They proudly announce that more Smiths have served in the Senate than any other name.

There have been in U. S. history, they claim, 22 Senator Smiths, as against 15 Johnsons, 12 Williamses, 12 Browns and eight Joneses.

The most colorful Smith, according to this research, was Sen. Marcus Aurelius Smith, an Arizona Democrat. He was prosecuting attorney of Tombstone in its heyday and his office was said to be two jumps from the courthouse and one from the saloon.

Smith served in the Senate for nine years beginning in 1912, and wrote his own epitaph as follows: "Here lies a good man — a lover of fast horses, pretty women, and good whisky."

Another Smith decided to build a career on a different name, Rhett, and campaigned his way into the Senate, where he served for two years.

The longest-serving Smith in the Senate was "Cotton Ed," of South Carolina who served for 35 years; the shortest was one from Delaware who served 17 days.

Only one Smith ever graduated from Harvard. He is the present incumbent from Massachusetts who was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of President Kennedy.

10 Congressmen Put Visit With Liz Ahead Of Legislative Work

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—While Congress was sweating out the closing days of the legislative jam, 10 Congressmen, instead of being on hand to vote, had nothing better to do than wait three hours to see Elizabeth Taylor in Rome.

In the end she wouldn't see them. She was as busy shooting her new picture, "Cleopatra," as they should have been in Washington.

The 10 Congressmen were traveling partly at the expense of the Italian government, partly at taxpayers' expense, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of Italian unification. When they arrived in Rome, however, they lost little time in heading for the 20th Century-Fox lot to see the English beauty who is playing the part of Cleopatra.

Three hours after reaching the set they were still waiting. Finally they gave up.

Those who put junketing ahead of legislative work included: Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem, N. Y.; Victor Anfuso and Abe Multer of Brooklyn, Seymour Halpern and Alfred Santangelo of Manhattan, Dominick Daniels and Peter Rodino of New Jersey, Harold Cooley of North Carolina, John Dent of Pennsylvania, and Roland Libonati of Chicago. All but Halpern are Democrats. Some are excellent Congressmen, but why they didn't stay on deck to vote is a question they will have to answer to their voters.

Republicans are in a quandary as to which Republican to believe as between ex-Vice President Nixon and ex-Gov. Goodie Knight in the latter's charge that a Nixon emissary offered Knight any job he wanted to stay out of the California gubernatorial race.

In making their decision, they can't forget two other instances in which Nixon used emissaries.

One was ex-Congressman Oakley Hunter of California, Nixon's emissary to Jimmy Hoffa who arranged teamster support for Nixon last November in return for holding up Hoffa's indictment for taxes in Orlando, Fla.

The other was Charley Willis, formerly on the White House staff, with Max Rabb, secretary of Ike's cabinet who acted for Nixon in getting Congressman Adam Clayton Powell to come out for Eisenhower in 1956. Following this, moves were made to drop Powell's income tax case.

The Hoffa-Nixon deal was arranged by ex-Congressman Hunter at a meeting with Hoffa at the Americana Hotel in Miami Beach. Afterward Hunter wrote an eight-page letter to Nixon, so there can be no denying what happened.

"After my meeting with you," the Republican ex-Congressman wrote the then Vice President, "I assured — — (a Hoffa intermediary) I was interested in the teamsters' program for political action and would be very happy to discuss the subject with Mr. Hoffa."

Continuing, Hunter reported: "Hoffa was in a pleasant, almost exuberant mood, and upon entering the room immediately took off his coat as if to indicate that he was not recording our conversation. I reciprocated by removing my coat also." (This was to show neither had a hidden recording device).

"We then got into a discussion of what Hoffa expected from the government as far as he and his union were concerned and what he might do for the political condidates whom he favored . . . Hoffa stated that an outright endorsement of you would most likely do more harm than good. He recognizes that he is 'hot'. . . . He feels that open endorsement of local officials of his union in certain cities would definitely benefit a candidate . . .

"He declared himself perfectly capable of figthing his own battles . . . He did say that he had one specific request which he felt was deserved . . . He felt that Judge Dickinson Letts, the federal judge to whom the monitors answered, should be taken out of the case . . ."

Hoffa lived up to his part of the agreement, had his teamsters discreetly support Nixon, probably tipped the scales in the state of Ohio. But after the election, the Justice Department indicted Hoffa in Orlando anyway. This brought another letter from the Republican ex-Congressman to Hoffa, on Dec. 8, 1960.

"I was sorry to hear of the indictment against you in the Orlando matter," Hunter wrote. "I know for a fact that your side of the case was put before the Vice President and he discussed the case with the Attorney General, Bill Rogers.

"It would be my surmise that Bill Rogers acted as he did for reasons of his own," Hunter added. "Mr. Nixon having lost the election, I doubt that he has since been in a position to exercise any decisive degree of influence."

Adam Clayton Powell's Case

In the Adam Clayton Powell case, the Harlem, N.Y., Congressman first went direct to Nixon in the late summer of 1956, offered to support the Republican ticket and rally the Negro vote for Eisenhower. Thereafter, two trusted emissaries handled the matter. Max Rabb, Secretary of the Eisenhower Cabinet, and Charley Willis, former assistant Sherman Adams. They went to New York, arranged for Powell to see Ike, make a statement from the steps of the White House calling on Negroes to vote Republican.

Powell was to get around $50,000 for campaign expenses, and his secretary, Hattie Dodson, then in the federal penitentiary in Alderson, W. Va., for income tax evasion, was to be released immediately. She was released Oct. 17.

After the 1956 election, the Justice Department sent word to the U. S. Attorney's office in New York to forget about the Powell grand jury which had been meeting on Powell's tax case, but a rebellious Assistant U. S. Attorney and a runaway grand jury indicted Powell anyway.

Scotland Light came up out of the morning mist dead on the bow. Away We Go IV was doing 15.20 knots on a course of 150. The sea was flat, except for the long green groundswells. We were out for bluefish and the only way you could keep from catching them would be to hide in the galley.

The ship-to-shore radio was full of reports from other fishermen. "Charlie, we're down a little east of the acid bank and we're murdering the blues. Wanna meet us? Come back, Charlie." "This is Charlie aboard the S.S. I.O.U. We're killing the blues off the Long Branch gastank. We'll stay here, Red."

We had gassed up at Zobel's on the Shrewsbury and Mike Bivona topped the tanks and said: "Wish I was going with you. They're murdering the blues between Scotland Light and Asbury." We stopped at Cottrell's in Highlands to buy chum, which is an ugly mess of ground-up fish. Mr. Cottrell, who was dropping 500 pounds of live lobsters into a trap below the dock, said: "This is the day. The blues are real hungry."

On the way out of Sandy Hook Bay, we passed some boats inbound and we signalled to ask how they did. They held up specimens which must have weighed between five and eight pounds. I don't like to mess up the aft deck of Away We go, but fish like that soften my sensitivity.

The boat is 35 feet long, with teak decks, a big cabin, a flying bridge, and twin 225 Grays. She moves swiftly and without strain, like a frightened lady and, with white leather chairs and cushions aft, she is hardly the type for cleaning fish.

Still, her record at catching fish is bad, and I wanted to correct it. Last year, she caught two anemic blues and one bonita. I've seen rented rowboats which do better. On this day, everybody aboard had that can't-miss attitude. My brother-in-law Emil, a man with size 14 feet, whistled as he set the rigs on the deep sea lines. My sister Adele once said of him: "He'd rather fish than eat." Then she pondered a moment and said: "No. That's a lie."

We passed Scotland Light and ran the lures out. One skipped the surface. The other was deep. We slowed to 1200 r.p.m.'s on one engine and the ground swells lifted the boat high, and set it down easily. My father, who will be 78 this month, went below to the head and, what ever he had in mind was knocked out of it when he executed a three-cushion billiard around the little room.

A nice-looking white boat passed to port. He blew a salute, but it wasn't until it passed that we could see it was Irish Mist. This is owned by my rich friends Jack and Dorothy Sullivan. They were busy murdering the blues. We whistled back to them, and kept moving south.

At Asbury, we turned out further to sea. The two lines drooped aft, listless in a dead sea. The sun was high now, and it caromed off the sea in hot copper coins. Kelly unwrapped the sandwiches, and sent a peanut butter on rye — thick, please — and a cup of coffee up to the flying bridge.

Kay Herman, who is related to Emil Herman by marriage, was listening to jokes and laughing, when she said: "I don't feel too good. It must be the sun." My father said his stomach felt funny, but he didn't laugh. Kelly passed out some highballs, and Bonamine pills. This combination may not stop seasickness, but it is guaranteed to make you wish you were dead. Several people starting wishing almost at once.

Ambrose Light was back off the port quarter. Some Long Island boats went by and everybody was cleaning fish. The boats were followed by long veils of sea gulls, waiting for the excess bait to be thrown over. We dropped some chum aft and made a nice slick and ran back and forth through it. No strikes. No fish.

I turned the ship-to-shore phone on again and listened. There were some screeches and whistling wails, and then the voices of men who said they had murdered enough blues and were going home. I killed the engine and we tried some bottom fishing. Nada. My brother-in-law lost his bait to a clever crab. We couldn't hit the sea if we fell overboard.

We trolled an hour on a north leg, passing the outbound Italian liner Augustus, which refused to get out of our way, and went on toward Roamer Shoals light. By this time, nobody was attending the lines. They were all in the cabin drinking and laughing.

At 5 p. m. we quit and hauled the lines in, and I opened both engines to 3200 r. p. m.'s and Away We Go moved up on top and threw the white foam aside as we came into the bay and up the river. At 6 we were docking and my daughter Gayle was ashore, helping with the lines and looking at us inquiringly.

"Well?" she said. I looked down from the bridge. "Well What?" I said. "Where are the fish?" she said. "Why don't you go inside," I said, "and help set the table for dinner?". . .

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How Would YOU Spend $50?

If her shopping is as sudden and unplanned as a case of love at first sigth, there's an impulse shopper on the loose! She has a lot of fun being one, too, even though she rarely wears today's purchases tomorrow.

Her steady course of inconsistency is the lifestream of the retail trade. She is the regular they depend on to keep the bulk of inexpensive items moving off the shelves and racks. She buys a "little up-to-date something" every week or two, tires of it quickly, retires it for something new. Like the starry-eyed romantic, her love-at-a glance usually proves a temporary infatuation.

What she really loves is change, lots of changes. Not for her, the one good all-purpose party dress! There must be a dress for every party, that no one has seen before. Monotony is the dull and uninspiring demon she fights . . . even if she must pay for her arms and ammunition by taking a full or part-time job. Sticking to small price-tags settles any qualms she may have about her wardrobe expenditures.

Give her $50 . . . and watch her convert it into a string of costumes and accessories in the budget shops. She's sure to buy style, if not high-fashion. If she buys a basic, it won't be on its conservative appeal. She's not particularly interested in a garment she can wear over and over again, year after year. That's why she can be satisfied with cheaper fabric and craftsmanship.

She can't fathom the conservative shopper who would save her $50 for an end-of-season sale and invest the whole amount on one marked-down suit. "How can she bear to wait six whole months to wear it?" the impulse shopper would say. She's much too impatient to master the mysteries of planning and coordinating a long-term wardrobe.

Nor can she understand the gambling instinct of the high-fashion leader who is willing to blow her $50 on a single skirt, fringed, with layers of ostrich feathers, of all things! When fads and fancies are not only 'way out but 'way up in cost, the impulse shopper shows an admirable restraint. She knows her type; she doesn't fall for any fads until they are safely "in" and she can afford them.

Knowing her type, she's smart to stick to it. She's usually smartly dressed, too, if she gives as much attention to grooming as she does to clothes. She feels she gets her money's worth out of her $50, just as the others do. And, as I said earlier, there's no doubt she has a lot more fun.

Whatever your shopping-type, good fit should come first. Without it, fashion doesn't count a fig, nor fabric and fine workmanship. To figure out your proper foundation garments, send for my booklet, "Figured for You." Address your request to John Robert Powers c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
5 ♣	Pass	6 ♣	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♦ North overbid paid a handsome reward today when West did not get off to the best lead.

South's five club opening was aggressive but not too unreasonable when considered in the light of favorable vulnerability, and the 150 honors he expected to apply against the cost of a sacrifice. North's raise to six was a distinct gamble since it depended on his partner having a singleton spade not to mention a solid trump holding.

West chose for his opening lead the seven of diamonds, reasoning that he must set up a trick before his ace of spades was dislodged. Declarer had no choice but to let it ride and when the jack of diamonds won the trick the hand became routine. Declarer discarded one spade on the second heart and repeated the diamond finesse.

West berated himself for having made the only lead to give declarer the hand. In light of the somewhat blind nature of the bidding we feel that the ace of spades is a sounder choice. It should be noted that declarer could have won the hand with any lead except the immediate cashing of the two spades.

Suppose, for example, a heart is opened. Declarer takes a spade discard and leads a spade. If East plays low, the queen forces West's ace. It is now a simple matter for declarer to finesse the queen of diamonds and play the queen of spades through East to set up the jack for the discard of his other low diamond.

If East is inspired enough to rise with the king on the first lead of spades declarer takes a diamond finesse against West and then by leading out all the trumps succeeds in trapping West, who will be unable to hold on to the ace of spades, and also retain protection in diamonds.

Pa. Residents Must Have License Plates

Pennsylvania State Police said last night that motorists residing in that state who earn their living in Maryland are required to have a Pennsylvania title to the car as well as license plates and registration card of that state.

Within the next week or so authorities will begin a drive on motorists who do not comply with the ruling. Those who do not abide by the state law are subject to a fine of $60—including $30 fine for not having the title and $15 fine each for not having registration card or license plate.

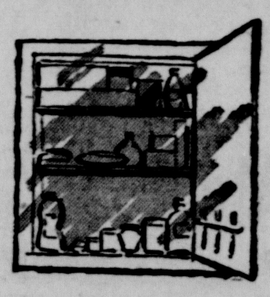

As of today 1961-62 Pennsylvania license plates will cost $5, half price, and are good until March 31 next year, police said.

Rain Threatens World Series Opener Today At Yankee Stadium

Jim O'Toole Will Oppose Whitey Ford

69,000 Expected To See Game Under Cloudy Conditions

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain threatened Wednesday's World Series opener at Yankee Stadium between the home-run sluggers of the New York Yankees and the underdog Cincinnati Reds.

The Weather Bureau said it would rain Tuesday night and Tuesday morning, tapering off to partly cloudy conditions. Game time (noon, EST) comes right in the middle of the tapering off period.

Another bulging crowd of 69,000 was expected to watch the Yanks open their 26th World Series. Network (NBC) radio and television were set to beam the game across the nation and to the far reaches of the earth.

Ford Vs. O'Toole

Whitey Ford, top winning pitcher of the majors with a 25-4 record, was to open for the 12-5 favored American League champions against 24-year-old Jim O'Toole (19-9), another Irishman with a fiery competitive spirit. Both are left-handers. It will be Ford's 15th series start and O'Toole's first. None of the current Reds ever played in a series game.

Mickey Mantle, whose 54 homers were second only to Roger Maris' record total of 61, was a doubtful starter for the Yanks because of his slow recovery from minor surgery on an abscess on his right hip.

"If I feel like I do right now," said Mantle when he visited Yankee Stadium, "I won't be able to play Wednesday."

The loss of Mantle would be a heavy blow to the Yanks. He is the No. 4 batter, a switch hitter who would bat right-handed against O'Toole. With Mantle out of action, the Reds could afford to pass Maris in a tough spot.

Houk More Hoopeful

Ralph Houk, who led the Yanks to a pennant in his first year after succeeding Casey Sengel as manager, was concerned about Mantle but more hopeful than Sunday.

"At least I know now he'll be available for the series, even if he has to miss the first game," said Houk. "He and I will make the decision tomorrow. If Mantle can't play, Maris will move to center and I will play (Hector) Lopez in right. (Elston) Howard would bat clean-up."

Houk was not inclined to underrate the Reds.

"They say (Frank) Robinson is in a slump," said Houk. "So what? That doesn't mean he won't break out against us. They have more than just Robinson and (Vada) Pinson. Those two didn't win it alone."

Discuss Scout Reports

Both clubs spent some time behind closed doors in meetings where the scouting reports were dissected. The Yanks loosened up a bit on the sidelines because a tarpaulin covered the field. Cincinnati did not take the field. Later in the day both managers met with Commissioner Ford Frick and the umpires to discuss ground rules.

The big problem for Cincinnati, of course, was stopping the M&M boys (if Mantle plays), and the other long-ball hitters who helped set a major league club home run record of 240. After the M&M boys, there still were Howard, Yogi Berra, Moose Skowron and John Blanchard, each with 20 or more homers.

Cincinnati's big threat was the outfield pair of Robinson, who will play left in the first two games at Yankee Stadium, and Pinson in center. However, first baseman Gordy Coleman, third baseman Gene Freese, right fielder Wally Post and outfielder pinch hitter Jerry Lynch all can hit the ball into the stands.

Three starting pitchers figured to do the heavy work for each side. O'Toole, Joey Jay (21-10) and Bob Purkey (16-12) for the Reds. Ford, Ralph Terry (16-3) and Bill Stafford (14-9) for the Yanks.

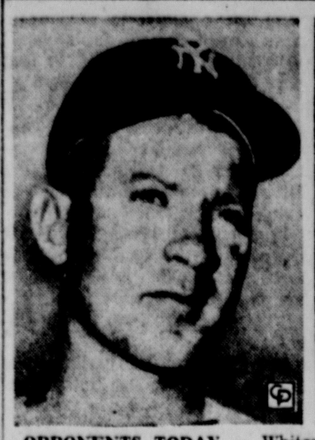

Cal Themselves "Misfits"

Cincinnati revels in the role of underdog. The players like to call themselves "misfits" and "rejects," pointing out their success after other clubs let them go. They are not overawed by Maris and Mantle or the huge caverns of Yankee Stadium. They are confident they have the pitching to win it all.

O'Toole, son of a Chicago policeman, has been the Reds' workhorse with 253 innings. He has completed 11 of 35 games including three shutouts. More important he has won eight straight and has not allowed a single home run over his last 101 innings in 16 games.

Ford, of course, had a sensational year with the help of Luis Arroyo (15-5). Contrary to the general notion, he didn't need Luis every day. He pitched 11 complete games in 39 starts with three shutouts and struck out 210. Ford was nicked for 23 home runs.

In case of rain, the opener would be pushed back a day to Thursday and the entire schedule would be shoved back one day.

OPPONENTS TODAY — Whitey Ford (left) and Jim O'Toole (right), a pair of talented lefthanders will be the opposing pitchers in today's opening game of the 1961 World Series at Yankee Stadium. Ford (25-4) was the ace of the New York staff while O'Toole (19-9) won his last eight starts for Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Players Like The Role Of Underdogs

More Incentive Says Robinson As Rain Halts Workout

By HAROLD HARRISON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds don't mind at all that they're decided underdogs to the New York Yankees in the World Series, scheduled to start Wednesday.

"I think we all like that," said Frank Robinson Tuesday as players, newsmen and hangers-on milled around in the clubhouse. A steady rain washed out all hope of a final workout in Yankee Stadium where the first two games of the series will be played.

Robinson, who showed definite signs in the final week of the season of emerging from a month-long batting slump, elaborated a bit on that underdog role.

"I think we all feel it gives us more incentive," he added. "And it's nothing new for us. It has been that way all season. Everybody said we'd fold up in August or September, but we just wanted to show we belonged up there. And we want to show them we're where we belong now."

Manager Fred Hutchinson said the only physical ailment among the Reds is catcher Darrel Johnson's ailing left side.

"He says it feels fine," Hutchinson said. "If it does, he'll catch both games here. If not, it will be (Jerry) Zimmerman. Then (John) Edwards will catch (Bob) Purkey in the third game."

Pedro College Back Of Week

Scored Six Times In Saturday Game

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pete Pedro, a little flyer from West Texas State College, was named Back of the Week by The Associated Press Tuesday for his six touchdown rampage against Texas Western last Saturday.

All the 5-foot-7, 160-pounder did was scamper for touchdowns on runs of 75, 48, 26, 2, 3, and 3 yards and roll up 236 yards in West Texas State's 56-27 Border Conference football victory.

The 19-year-old Pedro, a Puerto Rican from Lynn, Mass., is a sophomore who transferred to West Texas State from Trinidad (Colo.) Junior College.

Pete can run the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds and is a scoring threat every time he gets the ball. In his team's opener against Brigham Young, the week before, Pete skipped for three touchdowns and 104 yards in the first half of a 55-8 conquest.

"The fastest runner I ever saw," said Coach Ben Collins of Texas Western.

There were many other backfield stars during the weekend, the first fullscale session of the year. Among them were Angelo Dabiero of Notre Dame; Stan Gann of Georgia Tech; Rod Sears of Stanford; Bill Swingle of Northwestern; Willie Brown of Southern California, and Guy (Sonny) Gibbs of Texas Christian.

Brecheen Retained As Orioles Coach

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Tuesday that Harry (the Cat) Brecheen will return as pitching coach in 1962.

The announcement, made by President and General Manager Lee MacPhail, ended speculation that Brecheen would follow former Orioles Manage Paul Richards to Houston's new National League club.

The last link between the old St. Louis Browns, 47-year-old Brecheen has served as pitching coach with the Orioles since the franchise was transferred to Baltimore in 1954.

Purdue Prepares "To Stop Irish"

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Purdue's football team launched a "stop the Irish" drive Tuesday in preparations for Saturday's home opener against Notre Dame.

The defense concentrated on maneuvers to stop the hard-running Angelo Dabiero and Mike Lind.

Meanwhile, ailing tackles Don Brunn and Pat Russ were back in uniform and coach Jack Mollenkopf was hopeful both will see action before a sellout crowd of more than 50,000.

"Reds" Means Ball Team To Cincinnati Fans

Pennsylvania Judge Deplores The Name

CINCINNATI (UPI)—To Cincinnati baseball fans, the "Reds" mean the National League pennant winners and nothing else.

No one here worries about the unsavory connotation of Reds as pointed out Tuesday by Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael Angelo Musmanno who urged Manager Fred Hutchinson to change the club's nickname to anything but "Reds."

The Cincinnati National League entry changed its nickname to Redlegs in 1954 and the name stuck with only partial success through 1958. The club then went back to the "Reds" because that was what the fans insisted on calling the team.

The original name was the Red Stockings.

The names have been so interchangeable since the Redlegs first appeared that the club put out an official bulletin this year stating that "Reds" was the official name of the club.

Judge Musmanno, in a letter to Hutchinson said he was afraid America was in for some terrible scares. "It is inevitable that one headline or more will scream 'Reds murder Yanks,'" the judge said.

General Manager Bill DeWitt, hearing of the judges statement, while in New York, laughed and said:

"I hope we have some scares like that."

Senior Defending Champ Is Beaten

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The defending champion in the U.S.G.A. Senior Amateur Golf Tournament, Michael Cestone of Montclair, N.J., lost Tuesday on a missed putt.

Cestone was tied with Herman M. Freydberg of New York City going into the 18th hole. Freydberg hit into a trap near the green, but blasted out to within four inches of the cup.

Cestone missed an 18-foot putt needed for a par. Freydberg sank his easy par shot and took the match 1 up.

Freydberg, 58, qualified with a 79. Cestone was not required to qualify.

Piersall Paid To Behave Says Cleveland Press

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Press reported Tuesday that the Cleveland Indians paid outfielder Jim Piersall a $2,500 bonus to behave on the field during the past season.

Baseball writer Frank Gibbons said in a dispatch to the Press from New York that he asked General Manager Gabe Paul about reports the Indians paid Piersall a $5,000 bonus to cut down on his antics on the field.

"It really was $2,500," Gibbons said Paul replied.

"I'm not blaming (former general manager) Frank Lane," he quoted Paul as saying. "After all, you sign a man to the kind of contract that promises to gurantee performances.

"There have been all kinds of contracts," Paul was quoted as saying, "including alcohol clauses and clauses guaranteeing that the player will take fielding practice and not give away too many baseballs."

In 1957, the first year that the PGA held a hole-in-one contest, Dr. Fred W. Whitaker, a minister, was the winner. He scored an ace on the 196-yard 16th hole at Penobscot Valley Golf Club, Bangor, Maine. Eleven other aces were scored in the 1957 contest.

Buffalo tackle Ron Luciano, beset by injuries on a number of occasions, says "just call me Unlucky Luciano."

Indiana Prepares For Wisconsin Tilt

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Wingbacks Mike Lopa and Doug Lackey, both favoring injured knees, will miss the Wisconsin game Saturday, Indiana coach Phil Dickens said Tuesday as the Hoosiers continued to plug away at pass defense against the Badgers.

Lopa was injured in the opener against Kansas State while Lackey has been sidelined since the week before the opener. Nate Ramsey has been moved back to wingback, but is supported only by sophomore Chuck Fawcett and defensive specialist Ron Roemer.

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Shirlee Schmitt of Elizabeth, N.J., was named coach Tuesday of the seven-member United States team which will compete against 22 other nations in the World Roller Skating Championships at Bologna, Italy, Oct. 19-23.

Rain Threatens World Series Opener Today At Yankee Stadium

Jim O'Toole Will Oppose Whitey Ford

69,000 Expected To See Game Under Cloudy Conditions

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain threatened Wednesday's World Series opener at Yankee Stadium between the home-run sluggers of the New York Yankees and the underdog Cincinnati Reds.

The Weather Bureau said it would rain Tuesday night and Tuesday morning, tapering off to partly cloudy conditions. Game time (noon, EST) comes right in the middle of the tapering off period.

Another bulging crowd of 69,000 was expected to watch the Yanks open their 26th World Series. Network (NBC) radio and television were set to beam the game across the nation and to the far reaches of the earth.

Ford Vs. O'Toole

Whitey Ford, top winning pitcher of the majors with a 25-4 record, was to open for the 12-5 favored American League champions against 24-year-old Jim O'Toole (19-9), another Irishman with a fiery competitive spirit. Both are left-handers. It will be Ford's 15th series start and O'Toole's first. None of the current Reds ever played in a series game.

Mickey Mantle, whose 54 homers were second only to Roger Maris' record total of 61, was a doubtful starter for the Yanks because of his slow recovery from minor surgery on an abscess on his right hip.

"If I feel like I do right now," said Mantle when he visited Yankee Stadium, "I won't be able to play Wednesday."

The loss of Mantle would be a heavy blow to the Yanks. He is the No. 4 batter, a switch hitter who would bat right-handed against O'Toole. With Mantle out of action, the Reds could afford to pass Maris in a tough spot.

Houk More Hoopeful

Ralph Houk, who led the Yanks to a pennant in his first year after succeeding Casey Sengel as manager, was concerned about Mantle but more hopeful than Sunday.

"At least I know now he'll be available for the series, even if he has to miss the first game," said Houk. "He and I will make the decision tomorrow. If Mantle can't play, Maris will move to center and I will play (Hector) Lopez in right. (Elston) Howard would bat clean-up."

Houk was not inclined to underrate the Reds.

"They say (Frank) Robinson is in a slump," said Houk. "So what? That doesn't mean he won't break out against us. They have more than just Robinson and (Vada) Pinson. Those two didn't win it alone."

Discuss Scout Reports

Both clubs spent some time behind closed doors in meetings where the scouting reports were dissected. The Yanks loosened up a bit on the sidelines because a tarpaulin covered the field. Cincinnati did not take the field. Later in the day both managers met with Commissioner Ford Frick and the umpires to discuss ground rules.

The big problem for Cincinnati, of course, was stopping the M&M boys (if Mantle plays), and the other long-ball hitters who helped set a major league club home run record of 240. After the M&M boys, there still were Howard, Yogi Berra, Moose Skowron and John Blanchard, each with 20 or more homers.

Cincinnati's big threat was the outfield pair of Robinson, who will play left in the first two games at Yankee Stadium, and Pinson in center. However, first baseman Gordy Coleman, third baseman Gene Freese, right fielder Wally Post and outfielder pinch hitter Jerry Lynch all can hit the ball into the stands.

Three starting pitchers figured to do the heavy work for each side. O'Toole, Joey Jay (21-10) and Bob Purkey (16-12) for the Reds. Ford, Ralph Terry (16-3) and Bill Stafford (14-9) for the Yanks.

Cal Themselves "Misfits"

Cincinnati revels in the role of underdog. The players like to call themselves "misfits" and "rejects," pointing out their success after other clubs let them go. They are not overawed by Maris and Mantle or the huge caverns of Yankee Stadium. They are confident they have the pitching to win it all.

O'Toole, son of a Chicago policeman, has been the Reds' workhorse with 253 innings. He has completed 11 of 35 games including three shutouts. More important he has won eight straight and has not allowed a single home run over his last 101 innings in 16 games.

Ford, of course, had a sensational year with the help of Luis Arroyo (15-5). Contrary to the general notion, he didn't need Luis every day. He pitched 11 complete games in 39 starts with three shutouts and struck out 210. Ford was nicked for 23 home runs.

In case of rain, the opener would be pushed back a day to Thursday and the entire schedule would be shoved back one day.

OPPONENTS TODAY — Whitey Ford (left) and Jim O'Toole (right), a pair of talented lefthanders will be the opposing pitchers in today's opening game of the 1961 World Series at Yankee Stadium. Ford (25-4) was the ace of the New York staff while O'Toole (19-9) won his last eight starts for Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Players Like The Role Of Underdogs

More Incentive Says Robinson As Rain Halts Workout

By HAROLD HARRISON

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds don't mind at all that they're decided underdogs to the New York Yankees in the World Series, scheduled to start Wednesday.

"I think we all like that," said Frank Robinson Tuesday as players, newsmen and hangers-on milled around in the clubhouse. A steady rain washed out all hope of a final workout in Yankee Stadium where the first two games of the series will be played.

Robinson, who showed definite signs in the final week of the season of emerging from a month-long batting slump, elaborated a bit on that underdog role.

"I think we all feel it gives us more incentive," he added. "And it's nothing new for us. It has been that way all season. Everybody said we'd fold up in August or September, but we just wanted to show we belonged up there. And we want to show them we're where we belong now."

Manager Fred Hutchinson said the only physical ailment among the Reds is catcher Darrel Johnson's ailing left side.

"He says it feels fine," Hutchinson said. "If it does, he'll catch both games here. If not, it will be (Jerry) Zimmerman. Then (John) Edwards will catch (Bob) Purkey in the third game."

Pedro College Back Of Week

Scored Six Times In Saturday Game

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pete Pedro, a little flyer from West Texas State College, was named Back of the Week by The Associated Press Tuesday for his six touchdown rampage against Texas Western last Saturday.

All the 5-foot-7, 160-pounder did was scamper for touchdowns on runs of 75, 48, 26, 2, 3, and 3 yards and roll up 236 yards in West Texas State's 56-27 Border Conference football victory.

The 19-year-old Pedro, a Puerto Rican from Lynn, Mass., is a sophomore who transferred to West Texas State from Trinidad (Colo.) Junior College.

Pete can run the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds and is a scoring threat every time he gets the ball. In his team's opener against Brigham Young, the week before, Pete skipped for three touchdowns and 104 yards in the first half of a 55-8 conquest.

"The fastest runner I ever saw," said Coach Ben Collins of Texas Western.

There were many other backfield stars during the weekend, the first fullscale session of the year. Among them were Angelo Dabiero of Notre Dame; Stan Gann of Georgia Tech; Rod Sears of Stanford; Bill Swingle of Northwestern; Willie Brown of Southern California, and Guy (Sonny) Gibbs of Texas Christian.

Brecheen Retained As Orioles Coach

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles announced Tuesday that Harry (the Cat) Brecheen will return as pitching coach in 1962.

The announcement, made by President and General Manager Lee MacPhail, ended speculation that Brecheen would follow former Orioles Manage Paul Richards to Houston's new National League club.

The last link between the old St. Louis Browns, 47-year-old Brecheen has served as pitching coach with the Orioles since the franchise was transferred to Baltimore in 1954.

Purdue Prepares "To Stop Irish"

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—Purdue's football team launched a "stop the Irish" drive Tuesday in preparations for Saturday's home opener against Notre Dame.

The defense concentrated on maneuvers to stop the hard-running Angelo Dabiero and Mike Lind.

Meanwhile, ailing tackles Don Brunn and Pat Russ were back in uniform and coach Jack Mollenkopf was hopeful both will see action before a sellout crowd of more than 50,000.

Piersall Paid To Behave Says Cleveland Press

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Press reported Tuesday that the Cleveland Indians paid outfielder Jim Piersall a $2,500 bonus to behave on the field during the past season.

Baseball writer Frank Gibbons said in a dispatch to the Press from New York that he asked General Manager Gabe Paul about reports the Indians paid Piersall a $5,000 bonus to cut down on his antics on the field.

"It really was $2,500," Gibbons said Paul replied.

"I'm not blaming (former general manager) Frank Lane," he quoted Paul as saying. "After all, you sign a man to the kind of contract that promises to guarantee performances.

"There have been all kinds of contracts," Paul was quoted as saying, "including alcohol clauses and clauses guaranteeing that the player will take fielding practice and not give away too many baseballs."

In 1957, the first year that the PGA held a hole-in-one contest, Dr. Fred W. Whitaker, a minister, was the winner. He scored an ace on the 196-yard 16th hole at Penobscot Valley Golf Club, Bangor, Maine. Eleven other aces were scored in the 1957 contest.

Buffalo tackle Ron Luciano, beset by injuries on a number of occasions, says "just call me Unlucky Luciano."

"Reds" Means Ball Team To Cincinnati Fans

Pennsylvania Judge Deplores The Name

CINCINNATI (UPI)—To Cincinnati baseball fans, the "Reds" mean the National League pennant winners and nothing else.

No one here worries about the unsavory connotation of Reds as pointed out Tuesday by Pennsylvania Supreme Court Justice Michael Angelo Musmanno who urged Manager Fred Hutchinson to change the club's nickname to anything but "Reds."

The Cincinnati National League entry changed its nickname to Redlegs in 1954 and the name stuck with only partial success through 1958. The club then went back to the "Reds" because that was what the fans insisted on calling the team.

The original name was the Red Stockings.

The names have been so interchangeable since the Redlegs first appeared that the club put out an official bulletin this year stating that "Reds" was the official name of the club.

Judge Musmanno, in a letter to Hutchinson said he was afraid America was in for some terrible scares. "It is inevitable that one headline or more will scream 'Reds murder Yanks,'" the judge said.

General Manager Bill DeWitt, hearing of the judges statement, while in New York, laughed and said:

"I hope we have some scares like that."

Senior Defending Champ Is Beaten

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The defending champion in the U.S.G.A. Senior Amateur Golf Tournament, Michael Cestone of Montclair, N.J., lost Tuesday on a missed putt.

Cestone was tied with Herman M. Freydberg of New York City going into the 18th hole. Freydberg hit into a trap near the green, but blasted out to within four inches of the cup.

Cestone missed an 18-foot putt needed for a par, Freydberg sank his easy par shot and took the match 1 up.

Freydberg, 58, qualified with a 79. Cestone was not required to qualify.

Valley Whips Mt. Savage, 7-3, In WMI Soccer League Opener

James Scores Four Goals For Winners

Beall-Flintstone Contest Is Reset Today In Frostburg

Lineman Tommy James booted home four field goals to pace the Valley High Black Knights to a 7-3 triumph over the Mt. Savage High Indians yesterday in the opening game of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League season at Mt. Savage.

The scheduled contest between Flintstone and Beall High at Frostburg was postponed because of rain and was reset for 3:30 p. m. today on the Mountaineers' field.

Yesterday's high scoring contest was played in a steady drizzle on a muddy field which probably accounted for the large number of goals kicked.

Halfback Ralph Wilson scored three times on free kicks for Mt. Savage, accounting for all the Indians' tallies.

He opened the scoring for the home eleven in the first period but Danny Young's penalty goal for Valley knotted the count.

In the second stanza Ralph Wilson's second free kick for a goal put the Indians ahead for the last time. Keith Wilson of Valley promptly headed in a corner kick to tie the score again and James booted home his first field goal to put the Knights ahead, 3-2 at halftime.

James and Young both scored from the field in the third stanza and then James tallied twice more for the Knights in the fourth quarter to put the game out of reach of Mt. Savage. Ralph Wilson's third free kick scored the final goal for the losers shortly before the game ended.

Outstanding players for Valley were James, Young, Marvin Miller and Fred Sloan while the best bets for Mt. Savage were Ralph Wilson, Eugene Orndorff, Larry Birmingham, and Bobby Robertson. The lineups:

Turkey Crop Said 'Good' In County

Season Opens At Sunrise Thursday

With the turkey crop one of the best in years an expected 20,000 hunters will take to the field this weekend as the squirrel and wild turkey season opens Thursday morning at sunrise.

Game officials reported yesterday, however, that the squirrel crop is spotty, good in some sections of Allegany County and poor in others. This is due, they say, to an excellent crop of hickory nuts but a poor harvest of acorns, the latter the main winter dish of grey squirrels.

Regional Game Warden Joseph M. Minke reports he has received numerous letters and daily phone calls from hunters in the Baltimore area who are interested in hunting in Allegany County, especially for wild turkeys.

With fair weather in prospect over the weekend, some 20,000 hunters probably will be in the woods in this county on Saturday. Game wardens anticipate the turkey kill may exceed 500 before the end of the season which closes on October 31.

Recent rain should make the woods safe for hunting, Mr. Minke explained.

The bag limit on squirrel is six per day and the wild turkey limit is one per season.

AAU Head Hits NCAA 'Plot' To Boss Amateurs

Squabble Over Jurisdiction

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the Amateur Athletic Union charged the National Collegiate Athletic Association Tuesday with "plotting to take over control of all amateur athletics."

N. J. Barack of Columbus, Ohio, said in a statement:

"The NCAA negotiated in bad faith with the AAU for 16 months. The NCAA was plotting to take over control of all amateur athletics at a time when its special committee resisted AAU efforts to resolve the differences.

"Up until now the NCAA has had a full time job policing its own members. Now it wants to control all amateur athletics, college and noncollege, at a time when colleges must face up to charges of serious over-commercialization in athletics."

In Los Angeles, Wilbur C. Johns, head of a special NCAA committee on AAU-Olympic relations, denied his committee had "any idea of plotting a breakdown of relationships."

Johns, athletic director of UCLA, countercharged it was the AAU that bargained in bad faith.

Barack made the accusations before leaving for home after attending a series of meetings in Chicago.

The AAU and NCAA are locked in a squabble over international jurisdiction. The Chicago sessions dealt with basketball representation on the International Basketball Federation (FIBA) which the AAU controls with two delegates.

A stalemate was reached on proposals by both the AAU and the NCAA-backed National Basketball Committee. Another meeting was set for Dec. 6 in Washington, D.C. in an attempt to resolve the issue.

Touch Football Is Added At Elementary Schools

Program To Aid Physical Fitness Supervisor Says

Touch football once more will be added to the Allegany County physical education program for fifth and sixth grade students, Robert E. Pence, county supervisor of physical education, announced.

Drills will be held on the elementary school playgrounds after school hours, he said, and the football leaders will be former local high school players.

The boys' program will consist of a week of practice followed by three weeks of interscholastic games. Two-hand touch rules will be used and each school will have two squads. Games will consist of meetings between the school's A and B teams.

The purpose of the program is to develop physical fitness in Allegany County's youth through wholesome activities. Mr. Pence said he regrets that the number of children riding school buses right after school prohibits expanding the program to include all county elementary schools. He stated that help in the form of special physical education teachers in the elementary grades is a grave need and will be requested next year.

The advent of cold weather and the end of daylight time will necessitate the program operating only during the month of October, Mr. Pence explained.

Boys leaders are:

West Side—David Burke and Ed Brode.

Columbia Street—Gary Shook and Dennis Knippenberg.

Gephart—Jack Hutchinson.

Johnson Heights—Jim Ellsworth and Vernon Shrout.

Penn Avenue—Carl Puffinberger.

Parkside—Bobby Wharton, Ray Wharton and Jack Burkett.

Cupit "Rookie Golfer Of Year"

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jackie Cupit, a former college golfer for the University of Houston, Tuesday was named golf's "rookie of the year" by Golf Digest magazine.

Cupit, who turned professional last October, tied for seventh in his pro golf debut. Since then he has been out of the money only three times in 19 events and he won one tourney, the Canadian Open.

Softball Tourney Finale Postponed; Reset On Thursday

The championship game in the Western Maryland Softball Tournament scheduled last night at Penn Avenue field between the Cumberland Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Greenpoint Inn Old Exports was postponed because of rain.

With the threat of continued rain today and the muddy condition of the field, tournament officials last night decided to reschedule the title contest for 6:30 p. m. on Thursday.

The VFW, with Pete Elliott hurling all the games, has a 5-1 tournament record while Greenpoint Inn, with Vern Lowery on the mound, has compiled a 4-1 mark.

NUGENT PLANS NEW OFFENSE

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Coach Tom Nugent started getting ready a flock of Maryland backs Tuesday. He hopes they will blind Syracuse with their speed Saturday.

"This game may uncover some surprises in people on our squad," hinted Nugent.

Then he listed some "young boys" who weren't seen much in Maryland's first two victories who "might play more" against Syracuse.

He named sophomores Bob Burton, fullback from Newark, Del., halfbacks Jim Geradri, Williamsport, Pa., Ernie Arizzi, Barrington, N. J. plus Ken Smith, junior from Bethesda, Md., and Don Van Reenan, senior from Marlington, W. Va.

Along with Dennis Condie, Jim Davidson and Murnis Banner who carried the halfback load in the first two games, Nugent said "we'll let them all batter each other in scrimmages this week and those who survive will be in and out of the game Saturday."

Besides new faces, Nugent said Maryland will have new offensive formations, "quite different and nothing like we've done this year." He promised "we'll use them."

"We can't win with what we've done so far," Nugent continued. "We're hoping to get away for long runs."

This accounts for his shifting of backs to maintain top speed throughout the game.

Arizzi is a back not only with speed but agility to make him an ideal breakaway runner. So is Van Reenan, who missed his sophomore season because of a back injury.

Smith combines power with speed, having played fullback last season.

James Scores Four Goals For Winners

Beall-Flintstone Contest Is Reset Today In Frostburg

Lineman Tommy James booted home four field goals to pace the Valley High Black Knights to a 7-3 triumph over the Mt. Savage High Indians yesterday in the opening game of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League season at Mt. Savage.

The scheduled contest between Flintstone and Beall High at Frostburg was postponed because of rain and was reset for 3:30 p. m. today on the Mountaineers' field.

Yesterday's high scoring contest was played in a steady drizzle on a muddy field which probably accounted for the large number of goals kicked.

Halfback Ralph Wilson scored three times on free kicks for Mt. Savage, accounting for all the Indians' tallies.

He opened the scoring for the home eleven in the first period but Danny Young's penalty goal for Valley knotted the count.

In the second stanza Ralph Wilson's second free kick for a goal put the Indians ahead for the last time. Keith Wilson of Valley promptly headed in a corner kick to tie the score again and James booted home his first field goal to put the Knights ahead, 3-2 at halftime.

James and Young both scored from the field in the third stanza and then James tallied twice more for the Knights in the fourth quarter to put the game out of reach of Mt. Savage. Ralph Wilson's third free kick scored the final goal for the losers shortly before the game ended.

Outstanding players for Valley were James, Young, Marvin Miller and Fred Sloan while the best bets for Mt. Savage were Ralph Wilson, Eugene Orndorff, Larry Birmingham, and Bobby Robertson. The lineups:

Pos.	Valley (7)	Mt. Savage (3)
G	Creighton	Crabtree
RF	Broadwater	Engle
LF	W. Metz	Duckworth
LH	F. Metz	B. Loar
CH	Shockey	R. Wilson
RH	F. Sloan	Orndorff
OL	Miller	Garlitz
IL	K. Wilson	Birmingham
CF	Young	Robertson
IR	James	Carter
OR	D. Sloan	Barb

Score by periods:

VALLEY	1	2	2	2	7
MT. SAVAGE	1	1	0	1	3

Field goals: Valley—James 4, K. Wilson, Young. Mt. Savage—R. Wilson 3.
Penalty goal: Valley—Young.
Substitutes: Valley—Kimble, Morris, Moyer, High, Inskeep, Whitman. Mt. Savage—Sweene.
Officials: Burner and Ralston.

Turkey Crop Said 'Good' In County

Season Opens At Sunrise Thursday

With the turkey crop one of the best in years an expected 20,000 hunters will take to the field this weekend as the squirrel and wild turkey season opens Thursday morning at sunrise.

Game officials reported yesterday, however, that the squirrel crop is spotty, good in some sections of Allegany County and poor in others. This is due, they say, to an excellent crop of hickory nuts but a poor harvest of acorns, the latter the main winter dish of grey squirrels.

Heavy Title Bout Is Set For Dec. 4

Toronto Site Of First Canadian Go

TORONTO (AP)—World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will defend his title in Toronto against Tom McNeeley Monday, Dec. 4, it was announced Tuesday.

It will be the first world heavyweight boxing title bout ever held in Canada.

Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., told a news conference he has submitted a proposed agreement to Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, and that all obstacles have been cleared.

The fight will be held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, home of Toronto's National Hockey League club. Seating capacity is about 15,000.

The fight will be promoted by Championship Sports, and Toronto promoter Frank Tunney.

Patterson and McNeeley, of Arlington, Mass., will come to Toronto within the next two weeks for the formal signing.

"At that time details of the agreement will be announced," Bolan said.

The fight will be shown on television in Canada and the United States, he said, but there will be a blackout in a radius of about 100 miles of Toronto.

The Patterson-McNeeley fight originally was scheduled for Boston, Nov. 13. But Bolan canceled that arrangement because of a disagreement between the Patterson camp and the Massachusetts Boxing Commission concerning an out-of-town referee.

McNeeley is undefeated but unranked.

Forty-Niner Player Called To Duty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The high-rolling San Francisco Forty-Niners got some more bad news Tuesday when Mike Magac, one of their top young linemen, was called to active duty by the Army.

Magac, former Missouri star, was ordered to report to the 14th Army headquarters in St. Louis on Oct. 14. He'll play against the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday, then leave immediately.

Navy Scout Says Miami "Fine Team"

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Navy's chief scout said Tuesday the Miami Hurricanes, the Middies' Friday night football opponent, are a "real fine ball club with a highly-diversified attack."

The scout, Steve Belichick, said the 1961 Hurricanes have "more potential than any Miami club I have seen." Belichick has been scouting Miami off-and-on since 1949.

"Their attack includes a fine running game with good passing," he added.

Parades May Delay Crowd At Syracuse, Maryland Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—"Come early" was the word sent out Tuesday for fans going to Saturday's football game between Syracuse and Maryland.

Dan Wiseman, university chief of police, said today that two parades will add to traffic congestion in the area.

A parade in Hyattsville will add to problems of fans going to the game from the Washington area and another in Berwyn Heights may pose a headache for those from Baltimore.

Bill Cobey, diredctor of athletics, reported some tickets still are available in the regular 35,000 seats of the stadium He will decide in the next day or two whether to erect bleachers since "we do not intend to turn anybody away."

Heavy Title Bout Is Set For Dec. 4

Toronto Site Of First Canadian Go

TORONTO (AP)—World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson will defend his title in Toronto against Tom McNeeley Monday, Dec. 4, it was announced Tuesday.

It will be the first world heavyweight boxing title bout ever held in Canada.

Tom Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., told a news conference he has submitted a proposed agreement to Merv McKenzie, Ontario athletic commissioner, and that all obstacles have been cleared.

The fight will be held in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, home of Toronto's National Hockey League club. Seating capacity is about 15,000.

The fight will be promoted by Championship Sports, and Toronto promoter Frank Tunney.

Patterson and McNeeley, of Arlington, Mass., will come to Toronto within the next two weeks for the formal signing.

"At that time details of the agreement will be announced," Bolan said.

The fight will be shown on television in Canada and the United States, he said, but there will be a blackout in a radius of about 100 miles of Toronto.

The Patterson-McNeeley fight originally was scheduled for Boston, Nov. 13. But Bolan canceled that arrangement because of a disagreement between the Patterson camp and the Massachusetts Boxing Commission concerning an out-of-town referee.

McNeeley is undefeated but unranked.

Forty-Niner Player Called To Duty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The high-rolling San Francisco Forty-Niners got some more bad news Tuesday when Mike Magac, one of their top young linemen, was called to active duty by the Army.

Magac, former Missouri star, was ordered to report to the 14th Army headquarters in St. Louis on Oct. 14. He'll play against the Los Angeles Rams on Sunday, then leave immediately.

Navy Scout Says Miami "Fine Team"

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Navy's chief scout said Tuesday the Miami Hurricanes, the Middies' Friday night football opponent, are a "real fine ball club with a highly-diversified attack."

The scout, Steve Belichick, said the 1961 Hurricanes have "more potential than any Miami club I have seen." Belichick has been scouting Miami off-and-on since 1949.

"Their attack includes a fine running game with good passing," he added.

Parades May Delay Crowd At Syracuse, Maryland Contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—"Come early" was the word sent out Tuesday for fans going to Saturday's football game between Syracuse and Maryland.

Dan Wiseman, university chief of police, said today that two parades will add to traffic congestion in the area.

A parade in Hyattsville will add to problems of fans going to the game from the Washington area and another in Berwyn Heights may pose a headache for those from Baltimore.

Bill Cobey, diredctor of athletics, reported some tickets still are available in the regular 35,000 seats of the stadium He will decide in the next day or two whether to erect bleachers since "we do not intend to turn anybody away."

Stocks Decline Slightly As Turnover Drops Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks showed a modest loss on the smallest turnover in almost 10 weeks Tuesday, featuring some fairly wide price swings among the blue chips.

Volume amounted to a meager 2,680,000 shares against 2,800,000 in the prior session, the lowest since July 24. Of a total of 1,250 issues traded, 477 advanced, 39 to new highs, and 547 declined, 42 to new lows for the year.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks lost 0.04 and the Dow-Jones industrial average finished at 698.66 for a decline of 1.17.

DuPont dipped 2¾, reflecting changes proposed by the Justice Department in the planned spin-off of the chemical giant's vast holdings of General Motors stock. Johns-Manville shed 2 after stating that 1961 earnings may not equal 1960.

Allied Chemical and Union Carbide gained over a point and Sears Roebuck 1 on news it will make and sell its own line of low-priced color TV sets. Eastman Kodak, General Foods, and International Nickel were down at least a point.

Dow-Jones 20 rail average finished at 144.45 for a gain of 0.17 with Atlantic Coast Line down 1¼. Utilities closed at a new post-1929 peak of 123.59, up 0.23. Con Edison rose 1 and People's Gas added 1½, the latter on a bright earnings forecast.

Stocks Decline Slightly As Turnover Drops Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks showed a modest loss on the smallest turnover in almost 10 weeks Tuesday, featuring some fairly wide price swings among the blue chips.

Volume amounted to a meager 2,680,000 shares against 2,800,000 in the prior session, the lowest since July 24. Of a total of 1,250 issues traded, 477 advanced, 39 to new highs, and 547 declined, 42 to new lows for the year.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks lost 0.04 and the Dow-Jones industrial average finished at 698.66 for a decline of 1.17.

DuPont dipped 2¾, reflecting changes proposed by the Justice Department in the planned spin-off of the chemical giant's vast holdings of General Motors stock. Johns-Manville shed 2 after stating that 1961 earnings may not equal 1960.

Allied Chemical and Union Carbide gained over a point and Sears Roebuck 1 on news it will make and sell its own line of low-priced color TV sets. Eastman Kodak, General Foods, and International Nickel were down at least a point.

Dow-Jones 20 rail average finished at 144.45 for a gain of 0.17 with Atlantic Coast Line down 1¼. Utilities closed at a new post-1929 peak of 123.59, up 0.23. Con Edison rose 1 and People's Gas added 1½, the latter on a bright earnings forecast.

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our brother, Thomas J. McAtee. We especially wish to thank Rev. Sisk, pallbearers, and all those who sent flowers and cards. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance we are indeed grateful.

SISTERS LILLIE and MYRTLE

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved wife and our mother, Mrs. Pearl Dudley, who died Oct. 4, 1957.

She died with a smile on her face
That showed she had won her race
When she laid her life's work down
She went home to wear her crown.

Sadly Missed By Her

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our brother, Thomas J. McAtee. We especially wish to thank Rev. Sisk, pallbearers, and all those who sent flowers and cards. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance we are indeed grateful.

SISTERS LILLIE and MYRTLE

In Memoriam

In memory of my beloved wife and our mother, Mrs. Pearl Dudley, who died Oct. 4, 1957.

She died with a smile on her face
That showed she had won her race
When she laid her life's work down
She went home to wear her crown.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This office has been a battle-ground for three solid months. The war is about the air-conditioner. I realize summer is over, but please solve the problem now — for next year.

We have a single window-unit in this office which must be adjusted manually. One girl is always "dying from the heat." She insists on turning the unit up as high as it will go. Yesterday she set the controls to suit herself, then she put masking tape over the knobs and attached this sign: "DO NOT CHANGE!"

Must the entire office force be subjected to colds, sore throats and sinus infections because of one oddball? The same girl has bought a fan which blows on her all summer. Doesn't this indicate that something is physically wrong with her?

The boss is neutral. He says temperatures don't bother him. Is there a solution?

—KANSAS CITY COMPLAINT

DEAR K. C. COMPLAINT: The oddball should see a doctor—and the boss should take some positive action even though "temperatures don't bother him."

An expert ought to be called in to decide the ideal temperature for your office. He should then adjust the air-conditioner (for the summer) and no one should be permitted to touch it.

The girl who is always "dying from the heat" should be given the desk closest to the unit. You should be at the other end of the room.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my sister Judy lived at home she got whatever she wanted from Mom. Now that she is married, it's still going on—only worse.

Judy has had four babies in four years. Her husband barely makes a living. My dad is far from rich and there are many things we need but can't afford. Yet Mom buys clothes for Judy's kids, carries groceries over there and sits for them every Saturday and Thursday night.

Last week Mom and I went shopping for our winter clothes. She didn't get anything for herself although she needs shoes and a new coat. She spent $40 on dress clothes for Judy's kids. This burned me up. What can I do?

—PLAIN MAD

DEAR MAD: Nothing. So stop trying. Your Mom has always put Judy first and she always will. It's too bad when married children are a financial burden to parents, but some parents promote it—so keep silent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year my husband and I signed a pledge card obligating us for a substantial amount of money. In recent months our business has gone bad and we've had to pay heavy medical and hospital bills. It's impossible to meet the pledge.

Yesterday we received a letter from the director of the organization with a warning that the matter would be placed in the hands of an attorney if the pledge was not paid within 60 days.

Are we legally obliged to pay? Please hurry the information. We are humiliated and worried.—KZO

DEAR KZO: No ethical charity sues for collection of pledges.

Whether or not you are legally bound depends on the language of the pledge card. If you do not have a copy, get one—and see an attorney.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Junk Yards Discussed

At the suggestion of Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided to have all applications for junk yards handled by the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

This will have to await formal adoption of the interim zoning ordinance by the county commissioners, which is expected to be done sometime this month.

Skelly said that the investigation of the junk yard sites is within the scope and jurisdiction of the new Planning and Zoning Commission. This will eventually be the duty of C. Lee Renaud, county planner.

The matter was brought up by Skelley in regard to the application of John Cross and James Niner of the Cresaptown area. No action was taken on their application pending the planning group's check of the situation.

Another application was received from Harold's Garage, about a mile and a half outside Westernport on the Stony Run Road, for use of a site to dismantle cars for spare parts. This will be referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

It was suggested that Renaud accompany Skelly on visits to these sites so that he can familiarize himself with the programs.

County Accepts Road Job Bids

The low bids of the Hazelwood Company to construct two county roads were accepted yesterday by the Allegany Coutyn Board of Commissioners.

Bids of $66,642.60 on the Oliver Beltz Road, which runs from Williams Road toward Warrior Mountain, and $52,943 on the Town Creek Road, which is in the Flintstone area, were made by the Hazelwood firm. There were five bidders on the Oliver Beltz Road and six on the Town Creek Road.

The bid acceptances will have to be concurred in by the State Roads Commission as the two projects are federal aid jobs and the SRC handles the details for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in such cases.

The two projects are slightly more than one mile each and will be built to specifications to meet federal regulations for the two roads contracted for by the county.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This office has been a battle-ground for three solid months. The war is about the air-conditioner. I realize summer is over, but please solve the problem now — for next year.

We have a single window-unit in this office which must be adjusted manually. One girl is always "dying from the heat." She insists on turning the unit up as high as it will go. Yesterday she set the controls to suit herself, then she put masking tape over the knobs and attached this sign: "DO NOT CHANGE!"

Must the entire office force be subjected to colds, sore throats and sinus infections because of one oddball? The same girl has bought a fan which blows on her all summer. Doesn't this indicate that something is physically wrong with her?

The boss is neutral. He says temperatures don't bother him. Is there a solution?

—KANSAS CITY COMPLAINT

DEAR K. C. COMPLAINT: The oddball should see a doctor—and the boss should take some positive action even though "temperatures don't bother him."

An expert ought to be called in to decide the ideal temperature for your office. He should then adjust the air-conditioner (for the summer) and no one should be permitted to touch it.

The girl who is always "dying from the heat" should be given the desk closest to the unit. You should be at the other end of the room.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When my sister Judy lived at home she got whatever she wanted from Mom. Now that she is married, it's still going on—only worse.

Judy has had four babies in four years. Her husband barely makes a living. My dad is far from rich and there are many things we need but can't afford. Yet Mom buys clothes for Judy's kids, carries groceries over there and sits for them every Saturday and Thursday night.

Last week Mom and I went shopping for our winter clothes. She didn't get anything for herself although she needs shoes and a new coat. She spent $40 on dress clothes for Judy's kids. This burned me up. What can I do?

—PLAIN MAD

DEAR MAD: Nothing. So stop trying. Your Mom has always put Judy first and she always will. It's too bad when married children are a financial burden to parents, but some parents promote it—so keep silent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year my husband and I signed a pledge card obligating us for a substantial amount of money. In recent months our business has gone bad and we've had to pay heavy medical and hospital bills. It's impossible to meet the pledge.

Yesterday we received a letter from the director of the organization with a warning that the matter would be placed in the hands of an attorney if the pledge was not paid within 60 days.

Are we legally obliged to pay? Please hurry the information. We are humiliated and worried.—KZO

DEAR KZO: No ethical charity sues for collection of pledges.

Whether or not you are legally bound depends on the language of the pledge card. If you do not have a copy, get one—and see an attorney.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Junk Yards Discussed

At the suggestion of Harry T. Skelly, county roads supervisor, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided to have all applications for junk yards handled by the County Planning and Zoning Commission.

This will have to await formal adoption of the interim zoning ordinance by the county commissioners, which is expected to be done sometime this month.

Skelly said that the investigation of the junk yard sites is within the scope and jurisdiction of the new Planning and Zoning Commission. This will eventually be the duty of C. Lee Renaud, county planner.

The matter was brought up by Skelley in regard to the application of John Cross and James Niner of the Cresaptown area. No action was taken on their application pending the planning group's check of the situation.

Another application was received from Harold's Garage, about a mile and a half outside Westernport on the Stony Run Road, for use of a site to dismantle cars for spare parts. This will be referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

It was suggested that Renaud accompany Skelly on visits to these sites so that he can familiarize himself with the programs.

County Accepts Road Job Bids

The low bids of the Hazelwood Company to construct two county roads were accepted yesterday by the Allegany Coutyn Board of Commissioners.

Bids of $66,642.60 on the Oliver Beltz Road, which runs from Williams Road toward Warrior Mountain, and $52,943 on the Town Creek Road, which is in the Flintstone area, were made by the Hazelwood firm. There were five bidders on the Oliver Beltz Road and six on the Town Creek Road.

The bid acceptances will have to be concurred in by the State Roads Commission as the two projects are federal aid jobs and the SRC handles the details for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in such cases.

The two projects are slightly more than one mile each and will be built to specifications to meet federal regulations for the two roads contracted for by the county.

First Sewage Lagoon Planned In Pinto Area

Hearing Set For October 12

Plans are progressing on the development of the first community sewage treatment plant in the unnicorporated portion of Allegany County.

Walter N. Yoder and Sons Inc. of Pinto have applied to the State Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources for the first permit in Allegany County to construct a waste stabilization lagoon. The department has scheduled a hearing on the application at 11 a. m. Thursday, October 12, in Room 102 of Latrobe Hall at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

This proposed lagoon would be constructed on the Paul N. Yoder farm near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks for the purpose of sewage treatment.

A spokesman for the company expressed reluctance to explain details concerning the proposal. He observed that construction approval has not yet been granted and until that comes there are a number of uncertainties.

The lagoon method of sewage treatment has been recommended by sanitary engineers as a relatively inexpensive way of providing treatment. A number of the smaller communities of Allegany County probably would be interested in such a development.

The Yoder lagoon would be primarily for the Belair housing development which is materializing on part of the Harry J. Barton farm at Pinto. However, it would be available for the entire Potomac Valley wherever it was economically feasible to connect.

Plans for this sewage lagoon have been in process of development since February.

Only Cumberland, Westernport and Luke now have community sewage disposal.

226 Men Apply For Reduced SS Benefits

Results of a four-week tally of claims for Social Security benefits indicate that most men who apply for reduced benefits before age 62 are retired or out of a job, according to Walter R. Campbell, manager of the Cumberland Social Security Office.

Since July, 226 men have applied under a new provision in the Social Security amendments of 1961 permitting men to start collecting benefits at age 62.

Seventy-five of these workers had dependents who also qualified for payments. Most were in low-paid or part-time jobs. Only two per cent would have to quit work or reduce their earnings in order to begin collecting Social Security benefits.

Of all those applying for reduced benefits, 33 per cent were out of work, 40 per cent were retired, 25 per cent were working but had earnings so low they would be entitled to some or all of their benefits without quitting work.

More than half of the men who described themselves as unemployed at the time they applied for Social Security benefits had been out of work for more than 12 months; 17½ per cent had been unemployed for seven to 12 months and for 32 per cent, their last job had ended within the past six months.

About 47 per cent of the retired men were too ill to work, and 15 per cent had been involuntarily retired by company policy.

The new provision in the Social Security amendments was intended primarily for those who are in ill health or cannot find work. Abraham Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the results thus far indicate that the new provision is serving the purpose for which it was intended.

Celanese Workers Recalled

Considerable progress has been made during the last two weeks in restoring the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company to a normal production level, according to Hudson Nix, industrial relations manager.

He reported that approximately 300 employes have been recalled from furlough and that most of the short work schedules have been eliminated.

Approximately 150 more employes are expected to be recalled this week.

During July, August and early September approximately 800 employes were furloughed and 600 placed on a short-time work schedule as a result of machine stoppages and other production interferences in the Extrusion Department.

The interferences followed the company's notice of a new work assignment which became effective in August.

After being reduced to operating at less than one-third of capacity, the plant has now improved to a level of more than two-thirds of capacity. If the present rate of progress can be maintained, the company expects to have the plant in full operation before the end of this month.

City Voting Rolls Drop

The steady decrease in Cumberland's registration rolls continued last month. The trend will be reversed soon, however, as interest in the coming city elections quickens.

During September, registration rolls dropped nine as 11 names were removed for reasons of death or moving out of the city while only two new voters were placed on the books.

A report prepared by Mrs. Janet Trost, registration clerk, shows there were 9,096 registered voters on September 30. Included were 4,836 men and 4,260 women voters.

The city primary election will be held next June 5 and the general municipal election on June 19.

Public School Pupils To Learn Baton Twirling

Contest Slated At Fort Hill

Baton twirling for fifth and sixth graders will be added this week to the physical education program of Allegnay County public schools, Robert E. Pence, physical education supervisor, announced yesterday.

Drills will be held on the school playgrounds after school and twirling leaders will be selected from varsity majorettes of the Fort Hill and Allegany high school bands.

The program will be held this month and will consist of three weeks of practice followed by an inter-school twirling contest at Fort Hill stadium during the last week of October.

Marching, baton twirling, uniformity and appearance will constitute the specific goals of the instructors.

Last year's intra-city champions were West Side, overall winner; Johnson Heights, uniformity; Parkside, marching; and Gephart, appearance, said Mr. Pence.

The schools and leaders are as follows:

Mt. Royal, Kay Lynn Darrell and Beverly Pariser; West Side, Carol Gaffney, Judy Price and Betsy Ebert; Centre Street, Pat Kight; Columbia Street, Mimi Allison; Gephart, Donna Rice and Toni Harshberger.

East Side, Sue Dickenson; Johnson Heights, Gayle Proudfoot, Judy Files and Bev Brown; Pennsylvania Avenue, Connie Cooper and Carol Hendrickson; Virginia Avenue, Glenda Hardinger and Sharon McElfish; John Humbird, Sherry Perry.

The purpose of the program is to develop physical fitness in county youth through vigorous, wholesome physical activity.

Mr. Pence said he regrets that the number of children riding buses home after school prohibits expanding the program to include all county elementary schools. He said that help in the form of special physical education teachers in elmentary schools is a grave need and will be requested of the county commissioners next year.

Tawes Backs Retirement Benefits Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The governor has endorsed a plan to expand retirement benefits of Maryland teachers and state employes.

Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he will back the recommendations for adjustments and benefits to career employes and school teachers forwarded by a special committee headed by Willis H. White, a member of the Teachers Retirement System.

The suggested changes, also endorsed by the boards of trustees of the Employes Retirement System and the Teachers Retirement System, would affect approximately 23,000 school teachers and 22,000 career employes of the state.

The committee's recommendations would:

1. Change the formula for computing the retirement allowances of persons under both systems.

2. Change the state employes retirement system law to permit members to purchase additional annuity, which together with the pension would provide a retirement allowance up to two-thirds of average final compensation.

3. Amend the law to protect members of the retirement system who enter military service after June 1, 1959.

The estimated total cost for the two systems over a five-year period would rise from $40,500 the first year to $377,000 the fifth year.

Three Residents Are Receiving Rabies Shots

Were Bitten By Infected Rodents

One positive diagnosis of rabies and two suspected cases have been reported to the Allegany County Health Department. According to the report, three Allegany countians are undergoing Pasteur treatment after having been bitten by rodents that laboratory tests show were infected with rabies.

These are the first cases of human rabies reported in the county so far this year. Eight cases were reported here in 1960, three in 1959 and one in 1958.

The state has not had a human rabies death since 1944.

Bats Are Carriers

Although the prevalence of animal rabies in Maryland is lower than it has been since 1952, the State Health Department his issued a description of measures to be taken when an individual is bitten by an animal which is suspected to be rabid.

Dr. John H. Janney, epidemiology consultant, said only six positive diagnosis of rabies have been made in the state in the past 20 months.

He added, however, that the disease continues to appear in a wide variety of animals, both domestic and wild, with the number of cases fluctuating from year to year.

Although dogs are the most common carriers of rabies, records of the past 16 years also show positive diagnosis in foxes, cattle, raccoons, squirrels, sheep, bats, a horse, a wildcat and a skunk.

The most recent animal recognized as a carrier of rabies is the bat, the cause of the latest positive rabies case here. Squirrels were cited as the carrier in the possible cases.

There is no known record of rabies being found in rats or mice in Maryland, the Health Department said.

Head Is Needed

Dr. Janney said symptoms shown by a rabid animal may not be enough to indicate its condition, particularly in the early stages, and that in cases of unprovoked bites, and bites on the head, face and neck, a physician should be consulted at once.

If antirabies treatment is needed, the Health Department provides vaccine for those unable to pay for it.

It was stressed that an animal suspected of being rabid should not be killed, but instead confined for observation as directed by the Health Department.

Prompt diagnosis of rabies, Dr. Janney said, is possible only when the disease is well advanced in the suspected animal.

If the animal dies or has been killed, its head is sent to one of several laboratories for examination.

Care should be taken, Dr. Janney warned, not to mutilate the head if it is necessary to kill the animal, since certain diagnosis can be made only through examination of the brain.

Shooting an animal through the head, he said, usually makes the brain useless for examination.

Besides tomorrow's election, the students will select school colors and make plans for additional improvements in the student lounge.

Vepco Offers Details On Stony River Power Station

More details concerning the proposed $150,000,000 electric power station which the Virginia Electric and Power Company proposes to build along Stony River in nearby Grant County, W.Va., were unfolded in an article which appeared in a recent issue of Vepcovian, the bi-monthly magazine for employes of the utility.

To meet the company's expected load growth, Vepco must add new generating capacity at the rate of about 220,000 kilowatts per year during the next five years. The rate at which new generating capacity must be added to system facilities during the second five-year period (1966-70) will be even greater. Vepco's system growth load averaged 11.3 per cent during the 1950-60 period.

The first unit of the proposed 1,000,000 kilowatt electric power station about 20 miles northwest of Petersburg, W.Va. is expected to begin operation in 1965.

The Stony River station will be of conventional design and will include all the necessary auxiliaries and equipment required for safe, reliable and efficient operation. The electric switchyard and substation also will be of conventional design. Current generated at the station will be transmitted by two or more 230,000-volt transmission lines.

Artist's Conception Of Vepco Stony River Station

Vepco also will construct a dam, which will impound a 1,200-acre reservoir which will be used for cooling purposes. That would be nearly one-third the size of Deep Creek Lake, which has an acreage of 3,900. The Savage River reservoir covers 350 acres. The dam of rock and earth fill will be 143 feet high and 1,500 feet long.

The article points out that the lake will provide exceptional recreational benefits for enjoyment by both local and state residents and should prove to be a great summer tourist attraction in an area where winter sports already are popular.

Construction payroll for the complete project is expected to exceed $24,000,000. The annual operating payroll and maintenance after the station is completed, based on present day rates, is expected to exceed $900,000, plus the cost of some 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons of coal.

About 48 per cent of the total cost of fuel at Vepco's existing steam electric stations is for transportation charges in moving coal from the mine to the generating station. By locating the generating station on Stony River, where adequate quantities of coal are immediately available on a short-haul basis by either rail or truck, it is anticipated that the cost of fuel delivered to the station will be substanially less than the average cost of fuel delivered to other system stations.

Three Residents Are Receiving Rabies Shots

Were Bitten By Infected Rodents

One positive diagnosis of rabies and two suspected cases have been reported to the Allegany County Health Department. According to the report, three Allegany countians are undergoing Pasteur treatment after having been bitten by rodents that laboratory tests show were infected with rabies.

These are the first cases of human rabies reported in the county so far this year. Eight cases were reported here in 1960, three in 1959 and one in 1958.

The state has not had a human rabies death since 1944.

Bats Are Carriers

Although the prevalence of animal rabies in Maryland is lower than it has been since 1952, the State Health Department his issued a description of measures to be taken when an individual is bitten by an animal which is suspected to be rabid.

Dr. John H. Janney, epidemiology consultant, said only six positive diagnosis of rabies have been made in the state in the past 20 months.

He added, however, that the disease continues to appear in a wide variety of animals, both domestic and wild, with the number of cases fluctuating from year to year.

Although dogs are the most common carriers of rabies, records of the past 16 years also show positive diagnosis in foxes, cattle, raccoons, squirrels, sheep, bats, a horse, a wildcat and a skunk.

The most recent animal recognized as a carrier of rabies is the bat, the cause of the latest positive rabies case here. Squirrels were cited as the carrier in the possible cases.

There is no known record of rabies being found in rats or mice in Maryland, the Health Department said.

Head Is Needed

Dr. Janney said symptoms shown by a rabid animal may not be enough to indicate its condition, particularly in the early stages, and that in cases of unprovoked bites, and bites on the head, face and neck, a physician should be consulted at once.

If antirabies treatment is needed, the Health Department provides vaccine for those unable to pay for it.

It was stressed that an animal suspected of being rabid should not be killed, but instead confined for observation as directed by the Health Department.

Prompt diagnosis of rabies, Dr. Janney said, is possible only when the disease is well advanced in the suspected animal.

If the animal dies or has been killed, its head is sent to one of several laboratories for examination.

Care should be taken, Dr. Janney warned, not to mutilate the head if it is necessary to kill the animal, since certain diagnosis can be made only through examination of the brain.

Shooting an animal through the head, he said, usually makes the brain useless for examination.

226 Men Apply For Reduced SS Benefits

Results of a four-week tally of claims for Social Security benefits indicate that most men who apply for reduced benefits before age 62 are retired or out of a job, according to Walter R. Campbell, manager of the Cumberland Social Security Office.

Since July, 226 men have applied under a new provision in the Social Security amendments of 1961 permitting men to start collecting benefits at age 62.

Seventy-five of these workers had dependents who also qualified for payments. Most were in low-paid or part-time jobs. Only two per cent would have to quit work or reduce their earnings in order to begin collecting Social Security benefits.

Of all those applying for reduced benefits, 33 per cent were out of work, 40 per cent were retired, 25 per cent were working but had earnings so low they would be entitled to some or all of their benefits without quitting work.

More than half of the men who described themselves as unemployed at the time they applied for Social Security benefits had been out of work for more than 12 months; 17½ per cent had been unemployed for seven to 12 months and for 32 per cent, their last job had ended within the past six months.

About 47 per cent of the retired men were too ill to work, and 15 per cent had been involuntarily retired by company policy.

The new provision in the Social Security amendments was intended primarily for those who are in ill health or cannot find work. Abraham Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, said the results thus far indicate that the new provision is serving the purpose for which it was intended.

40,070 Voters Registered In Allegany County

A report by the office of the Allegany County Board of Education Supervisors indicates that as of October 1 some 40,070 persons were registered voters.

Of this number, 22,291 are registered Republican, 17,458 are Democrats, 311 declined to give party affiliation, eight are Socialists and two persons belong to other parties.

John R. Kelly, chief clerk and Democrat registrar, said the number of persons who died during September overshadowed the number of persons who were registered.

The names of 26 persons were stricken from the books due to death and a total of 12 new names were added to the ledgers.

Sixteen Republicans and 10 Democrats died during that period. On the new registration side of the ledger, nine Republicans and two Democrats signed up.

Twenty-two persons transferred from one district and precinct to another, according to Mr. Kelly, who said six persons changed name or address; four changed party affiliation and four persons had their names removed by request.

Celanese Workers Recalled

Considerable progress has been made during the last two weeks in restoring the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company to a normal production level, according to Hudson Nix, industrial relations manager.

He reported that approximately 300 employes have been recalled from furlough and that most of the short work schedules have been eliminated.

Approximately 150 more employes are expected to be recalled this week.

During July, August and early September approximately 800 employes were furloughed and 600 placed on a short-time work schedule as a result of machine stoppages and other production interferences in the Extrusion Department.

The interferences followed the company's notice of a new work assignment which became effective in August.

After being reduced to operating at less than one-third of capacity, the plant has now improved to a level of more than two-thirds of capacity. If the present rate of progress can be maintained, the company expects to have the plant in full operation before the end of this month.

City Voting Rolls Drop

The steady decrease in Cumberland's registration rolls continued last month. The trend will be reversed soon, however, as interest in the coming city elections quickens.

During September, registration rolls dropped nine as 11 names were removed for reasons of death or moving out of the city while only two new voters were placed on the books.

A report prepared by Mrs. Janet Trost, registration clerk, shows there were 9,096 registered voters on September 30. Included were 4,836 men and 4,260 women voters.

The city primary election will be held next June 5 and the general municipal election on June 19.

CD Alert Postponed

A statewide Civil Defense alert scheduled for this week in Maryland has been postponed, according to information received by William G. Barger, Allegany County CD director.

Public School Pupils To Learn Baton Twirling

Contest Slated At Fort Hill

Baton twirling for fifth and sixth graders will be added this week to the physical education program of Allegnay County public schools, Robert E. Pence, physical education supervisor, announced yesterday.

Drills will be held on the school playgrounds after school and twirling leaders will be selected from varsity majorettes of the Fort Hill and Allegany high school bands.

The program will be held this month and will consist of three weeks of practice followed by an inter-school twirling contest at Fort Hill stadium during the last week of October.

Marching, baton twirling, uniformity and appearance will constitute the specific goals of the instructors.

Last year's intra-city champions were West Side, overall winner; Johnson Heights, uniformity; Parkside, marching; and Gephart, appearance, said Mr. Pence.

The schools and leaders are as follows:

Mt. Royal, Kay Lynn Darrell and Beverly Pariser; West Side, Carol Gaffney, Judy Price and Betsy Ebert; Centre Street, Pat Kight; Columbia Street, Mimi Allison; Gephart, Donna Rice and Toni Harshberger.

East Side, Sue Dickenson; Johnson Heights, Gayle Proudfoot, Judy Files and Bev Brown; Pennsylvania Avenue, Connie Cooper and Carol Hendrickson; Virginia Avenue, Glenda Hardinger and Sharon McElfish; John Humbird, Sherry Perry.

The purpose of the program is to develop physical fitness in county youth through vigorous, wholesome physical activity.

Mr. Pence said he regrets that the number of children riding buses home after school prohibits expanding the program to include all county elementary schools. He said that help in the form of special physical education teachers in elmentary schools is a grave need and will be requested of the county commissioners next year.

Tawes Backs Retirement Benefits Plan

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The governor has endorsed a plan to expand retirement benefits of Maryland teachers and state employes.

Gov. Tawes said Tuesday he will back the recommendations for adjustments and benefits to career employes and school teachers forwarded by a special committee headed by Willis H. White, a member of the Teachers Retirement System.

The suggested changes, also endorsed by the boards of trustees of the Employes Retirement System and the Teachers Retirement System, would affect approximately 23,000 school teachers and 22,000 career employes of the state.

The committee's recommendations would:

1. Change the formula for computing the retirement allowances of persons under both systems.

2. Change the state employes retirement system law to permit members to purchase additional annuity, which together with the pension would provide a retirement allowance up to two-thirds of average final compensation.

3. Amend the law to protect members of the retirement system who enter military service after June 1, 1959.

Vepco Offers Details On Stony River Power Station

More details concerning the proposed $150,000,000 electric power station which the Virginia Electric and Power Company proposes to build along Stony River in nearby Grant County, W.Va., were unfolded in an article which appeared in a recent issue of Vepcovian, the bi-monthly magazine for employes of the utility.

To meet the company's expected load growth, Vepco must add new generating capacity at the rate of about 220,000 kilowatts per year during the next five years. The rate at which new generating capacity must be added to system facilities during the second five-year period (1966-70) will be even greater. Vepco's system growth load averaged 11.3 per cent during the 1950-60 period.

The first unit of the proposed 1,000,000 kilowatt electric power station about 20 miles northwest of Petersburg, W.Va. is expected to begin operation in 1965.

The Stony River station will be of conventional design and will include all the necessary auxiliaries and equipment required for safe, reliable and efficient operation. The electric switchyard and substation also will be of conventional design. Current generated at the station will be transmitted by two or more 230,000-volt transmission lines.

Artist's Conception Of Vepco Stony River Station

Vepco also will construct a dam, which will impound a 1,200-acre reservoir which will be used for cooling purposes. That would be nearly one-third the size of Deep Creek Lake, which has an acreage of 3,900. The Savage River reservoir covers 350 acres. The dam of rock and earth fill will be 143 feet high and 1,500 feet long.

The article points out that the lake will provide exceptional recreational benefits for enjoyment by both local and state residents and should prove to be a great summer tourist attraction in an area where winter sports already are popular.

Construction payroll for the complete project is expected to exceed $24,000,000. The annual operating payroll and maintenance after the station is completed, based on present day rates, is expected to exceed $900,000, plus the cost of some 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons of coal.

About 48 per cent of the total cost of fuel at Vepco's existing steam electric stations is for transportation charges in moving coal from the mine to the generating station. By locating the generating station on Stony River, where adequate quantities of coal are immediately available on a short-haul basis by either rail or truck, it is anticipated that the cost of fuel delivered to the station will be substanially less than the average cost of fuel delivered to other system stations.

School Children To See Live Play By TV Actors

A live theatre performance for school children will be presented at five schools in Allegany County this week and next by the County Council of PTA.

The play, "Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch," by Alice Hegan Rice, illustrates social problems of the early 1900s and is a long-time favorite for its humor, romance and suspense. It will be performed here by professional adult actors of the Rockefeller Players of New York.

Performances are scheduled at Fort Hill High School Friday at 9:45 a. m. and 1:15 p. m., at Bruce High in Westernport next Monday at 9:30 a. m., at Central Elementary School in Lonaconing Monday at 1:15 p. m., at Beall High School in Frostburg Tuesday at 9:30 a. m., and at Mt. Savage School at 1 p. m. Tuesday.

Lucille Rockefeller plays Mrs. Wiggs, and Bill Farley of the Phil Silvers television show plays Mr. Wiggs. Bill Weston, currently appearing in a TV series about the Florida Everglades, plays two roles, as does Ann Roberts, whose face is familiar from TV commercials.
